Skinny Skribbles

Around And About Town

With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

Today is the Battle of the Balloons. The casualties will not be counted until tomorrow. There will be some, because there were too many men fighting for the same place. It has been a hot campaign, both from the weather standpoint and political temperature, which in one instance took on pamphlet form. If you are in the finals, maybe you are lucky. This will not be determined until some time in November. All elections this year seem to have a lot of heat in them.

Oranges refused to continue as a low-down fruit last week, and moved up 23 cents a packed box. Now that's more like it. The orange, for what it has cost to put in the spotlight by this time should be in the aristocratic class. For several weeks oranges have traveled along the lower registers, most of the time so low you couldn't see 'em for alibis. If the market advances several more 23 cents per week, before the season closes the grower will not regret that he is in the citrus business. Up to the present time he hasn't had anything to be proud of.

When Governor Merriam visited Santa Ana last Friday he was accompanied by State Highway Commissioner Phil Stanton. No man has served California better. He was speaker of the assembly when adroit direction was essential in a number of legislative matters, especially the Japanese issue. Stanton laid out the town of Huntington Beach. Another Orange county city which developed under his aggressive direction was Seal Beach. Phil Stanton has passed through a sickness to which many others with less determination would have surrendered. He beat the physical rap and is going strong again, much to the pleasure of his friends.

The voters helped a lot of candidates close their headquarters today.

There is a little silver filtering through the clouds of business. My statistical department reports that beans will start about five cents a pound, and the walnut crop is almost exhausted, which will give the 1938 yield a favorable position. Oranges lifted their price-head last week, and election is over.

From Old Mexico, place Coyacan, comes a card from the columnist of the Costa Mesa Herald, that dashing caballeros and tequila give a tinge of excitement to visitors from the States. Nell Murbarger has been enjoying a week's vacation in Ensenada. She expects to be home Labor day so she can take a rest. I know a fellow who went into Mexico one time with the intention of buying out a brewery, and he was so full of tequila when he came home that it took him three weeks before he could look a glass of rye in the face.

I like election days—when they are over. About all I heard all day long was "Have you voted yet?" And me with an election precinct two blocks away!

Election day affects business differently. Today the cocktail rooms, the banks, the title companies, the courthouses and city hall all close so the day may be devoted to politics. The difference with newspapers is that they remain open all day and all night. But who asked people to go into the newspaper business, anyway?

Nat Neff warns me of the danger of wearing a coat. Thinks the weather entirely too hot for a man of my avoirdupois carrying around surplus luggage.

And then there was the group who went to a park to indulge in a steak-bake, and the mosquitoes were there ahead of them. That's why some of the party are not going back for another steak-bake.

Young America is hard to convince. Served with chicken pie, a young American expressed his skepticism as to the presence of chicken. He insisted it was liver, and an argument failed to convince him otherwise. The controversy closed with this definite statement on the part of the lad: "Well, it may be chicken to you, but it's still liver to me."

I was interested in a press report where the Santa Fe was indulging in an expensive and extensive change in about eight miles of main line track in Arizona to permit faster schedules. The public wants to go places quicker, freight customers want their merchandise delivered in less time and cheaper, and employees resist de-

30,000 Orange County Voters At Polls Today After Lively Campaign

Demoted Officer Testifies

BULLETIN
NEW YORK. (AP) — District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey won the right today, over strenuous defense objections to introduce the testimony of a New York policeman in the conspiracy trial of James J. Hines.

The disputed witness, once attached to the chief inspector's staff, was "broken"—dropped in rank from a plain clothesman to a uniformed "harness bull"—after he raided a policy or "numbers" game bank controlled by the late mob chief, Dutch Schultz.

NEW YORK. (AP) — A New York policeman who was "broken"—reduced in rank from a plain clothesman to a uniformed "harness bull," after he had raided a Dutch Schultz policy bank—was called to the witness stand by the state today in the conspiracy trial of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines.

Previous witnesses testified Hines, as the alleged political "fixer" for the Schultz racket syndicate, used his influence to cause the transfer of persistent police officers to outlying districts.

DEMOTED POLICEMAN
The patrolman, Raymond B. Stille, testified he raided a "drop" station of a Schultz-controlled policy bank when he was a member of Chief Inspector John J. O'Brien's squad in 1933.

A short time later he was demoted and sent back into uniform from the chief inspector's squad, with a loss of $240 a year in pay. George Weinberg, former business manager of the Schultz racket combine, has testified he complained to Hines about the squad's raids, and that subsequently nearly the entire squad was reduced to uniform.

DEFENSE MOVE
Meanwhile it was indicated Hines' defense lawyers would attempt to show the testimony of five Connecticut residents that they saw Hines visit Schultz on friendly terms in the summer of 1935 was a case of mistaken identity.

The contention would be that the witness mistook a benign looking "triggerman" of the Schultz mob, Larry Carney, for Hines.

Known for years along Broadway as "The Deacon" because of his white hair and dignified appearance, Carney is about the same height and build as the Tammany district leader.

"DEACON" MENTIONED
"The Deacon" was mentioned in the trial when Defense Counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker asked John Pucher, head waiter at the Hotel Stratfield in Bridgeport, Conn., where Schultz lived in 1935, if he had seen Carney at the hotel. Pucher said he did not know.

Another witness, Charles Wall, former bellhop at the Hotel Barum in Bridgeport, where Schultz also stayed, told Stryker he knew there was a man named Carney staying at the hotel with Schultz—but indicated he knew Carney and Hines as two distinct individuals.

ATTORNEYS CLASH
The trial was delayed more than an hour while Defense Counsel Stryker and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey clashed in a heated private conference before Justice Pecora.

Dewey was striving to link the demotion of Patrolman Stille and other police raiders to Hines' influence, while Stryker contended the testimony was too remote from the conspiracy issue.

Dewey left the huddle with a smile in contrast to the black scowl of Justice Shalleck, a Hines lawyer.

Justice Pecora reserved decision on the admissibility of Stille's testimony and ordered the patrolman to step down from the witness stand.

Gloom Chaser

PITTSBURGH. (AP) — Sour-faced motorists get the "bird" from Traffic Officer John J. Sutton—and break into a smile.

The officer imitates bird calls instead of using his shrill police whistle to direct traffic because "it makes a lot of people happier."

70% Vote in State Likely, Says Jordan

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP) — California's voters today took over the job of settling issues in a bitter primary campaign involving more than 800 state candidates and the political fate of Senator William G. McDougall, President Roosevelt's choice for re-election.

Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, himself a candidate for re-election, predicted 70 per cent of the state's 3,454,058 registered voters would cast ballots because of the issues and candidates involved. Of the total, 2,052,518 are Democrats and 1,246,773 Republicans.

Besides the four-way race for the Democratic senatorial nomination, eight Democrats sought the gubernatorial nomination in another heated fight, and five candidates battled for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Seventeen incumbent congressmen sought renomination, there were candidates for 80 state assembly seats and 20 in the state senate, and various other state and county offices.

An initiative proposal to pay all unemployed persons over 50 a $30 weekly scrip pension enlivened the senatorial and gubernatorial races after President Roosevelt and McDougall censured the plan as unsound and "Utopian."

An attempt is being made to rule the proposal off the ballot in November. It is not being voted on today.

DEATH TAKES MAX FACTOR

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Max Factor, 61-year-old pioneer motion picture make-up expert, died at his home today. He had been ill for the last three months, was confined to his bed for two months.

A liver and kidney ailment caused his death. Factor was born in Lodz, Russia. Factor came to his country in 1904. In the early days of pictures, he became a make-up man and through the years built a huge make-up cosmetic and wig business.

EX-TROTSKY AIDE KILLED?

PARIS. (AP) — Detectives working to establish identity of a headless and legless body fished from the Seine near Meulan reported today two members of the International Workers (Trotskyist) party said it appeared to be that of Rudolf Klement, Leon Trotsky's former private secretary.

Klement disappeared July 13, leading party officials to charge he had been kidnapped by Soviet agents to aid prospective trials against revolutionary leaders in Barcelona.

Democrat Asserts G. O. P. Beat Him

GRAHAM, Tex. (AP) — Rep. W. D. McFarlane charged today 5000 Republicans voted in last Saturday's Democratic runoff primary election to defeat him for re-election from the 13th Texas congressional district.

The congressman charged there was a nationwide effort on the part of the Republican party to "smear the New Deal" everywhere a strong supporter of President Roosevelt was a candidate for re-election.

GUANAJUATO, Mexico. (AP) — Eleven miners, ill of thirst and hunger, were rescued yesterday from the mine La Peregrina where they were caught Thursday by a sand and rock cave-in. Two miners died in the mine.

Sidelights On Today's Voting

This is a legal holiday in the courthouse, but the county clerk's crew and Mrs. Golden Walker, switchboard operator, wouldn't know it. One deputy clerk conservatively estimated that since 6 a. m. calls to the clerk's office have averaged three a minute.

Most of the calls have been from Republicans who wanted to write in a Democratic candidate's name, or vice versa, and make it count in the Democratic column, or vice versa. Clerk's deputies patiently explain the write-in on the wrong ballot would be just a complimentary vote.

Big Vote Indicated By Noon

More than 30,000 Orange county voters were flocking to the polls today, nominating candidates for federal, state and county offices.

By the time polls close at 7 p. m., a vote of possibly more than 50 per cent was indicated. At noon, percentages of registered voters who had cast ballots ranged between 20 and 25 per cent. Precinct workers said the early percentage was high for a primary election possibly because of the large number of candidates seeking local office.

BIG BALLOT
Sample Santa Ana precincts reported a 23.6 per cent vote at noon. Orange's percentage was about 23 per cent, Newport Beach 21 per cent, Costa Mesa 25 per cent, Tustin 25 per cent, and Anaheim and Fullerton between 20 and 25 per cent.

Earlier predictions had been between 40 and 45 per cent of the 71,000 registered voters qualified to cast ballots in today's primary. Polls opened at 6 a. m., with election workers expecting to be on the job in many cases until the early hours tomorrow morning.

Two hundred and 47 names appeared on Republican and Democratic ballots alone, with a dozen more on minor party tickets. TABULATION TONIGHT
When officials in each of the county's 248 precincts finish counting ballots after the polls close at 7 o'clock, they will record the returns on tally sheets and bring ballots and tallies to County Clerk B. J. Smith's office in the courthouse. There they will be tabulated in sets of huge charts by newspapermen and clerk's deputies. Final returns from last precincts are not expected before some time tomorrow morning.

Screen Directors Argue for Guild Before Labor Board

LOS ANGELES. (AP) — Top salaried screen directors, who've earned a million or so by coaxing such stars as Greta Garbo and Shirley Temple to run the gamut of emotions, argued today at a labor board hearing that they rank as "laborers," like factory hands, under the Wagner act.

Howard Hawks, whose list of hits includes "S. A. Harte" and "The Dawn Patrol," was the first witness of the Directors' Guild in behalf of its demand for certification as the exclusive bargaining agency of 600 directors, assistant directors and unit managers.

Twelve Hollywood studios, who have refused to bargain with the guild, contend the film industry is not engaged in interstate commerce and the directors are not "employees" within the meaning of the Wagner act, because they are under contract.

H. B. COUNCIL RENEWS WAR ON OIL LEASES

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — City councilmen last night took the second step in a "war" against the state over leasing of slant-drilling sites when City Attorney Ray Overacker was ordered to prepare a new ordinance whereby the city could control drilling on disputed lands.

Through the new ordinance, which might contain zoning restrictions, the city could restrict and control drilling in areas adjacent to railroads and highways, it was believed.

This action was taken after Mayor M. M. McCallen said he believed that no bids will be opened by the state Sept. 1, as he believes no bids will be offered for drilling. Owners of prospective drill sites must grant easements to bidding companies before they may bargain with the state, and as far as he knows, no such negotiations have been made.

Scientists Study Man Whose Eyes Becoming Stone

PASADENA. (AP) — A man with eyes which are slowly turning to stone held the interest of the Western Assembly of the College of Syntonic Optometry, concluding its three-day convention here today.

Identity of the 31-year-old man was withheld and he was referred only as "Mr. X." Although there have been 71 known cases in which some part of a victim's body became ossified, Dr. Russell E. Simpson of Pasadena said, this is the first one known in which the eyes were affected.

The turning-to-stone disease results from over activity of the para-thyroid gland which causes transfer of calcium from the bones to soft tissues of the body.

FRENCH UNITS NEAR BORDER

PARIS. (AP) — While motorized units of the French army began maneuvers close to the German border, the cabinet today formally ratified a decree increasing the hours of labor in national defense industries.

Acting in the midst of the heaviest war clouds in 20 years, the ministers labelled the decree urgent and made it applicable immediately.

The measure was signed by President Albert LeBrun and every member of Premier Edouard Daladier's cabinet as a symbolic act to show France's determination to carry out her treaty obligations to Czechoslovakia if necessary.

The decree gave the government virtual power to mobilize French industry for war.

London, Paris Plan Strong, United Action

LONDON. (AP) — The cabinets of the British-French entente, meeting in the face of the most realistic war menace since 1914, today drafted urgent plans to preserve world peace or to meet the conflict if it comes.

An emergency meeting of British ministers lasting nearly three hours was believed to have reached a united decision on a calm but firm final demand that Reichsfuehrer Hitler halt the German campaign of hate against Czechoslovakia and cooperate in efforts to reach a settlement of the dangerous Sudeten German issue.

PREPARE TO ACT
The French cabinet, meeting even longer, voted itself virtual power to mobilize French industry for war purposes.

Informed persons said there was every reason to believe that 18 of the 22 members of the British cabinet meeting at 10 Downing street likewise considered preparedness measures of a military and naval nature.

The fact that the French ministers also approved "instructions" to French envoys abroad indicated the probability of strong, coordinated diplomatic action by the two powers to impress on Hitler that any war resulting from German action holds suicidal possibilities.

THREAT TO PEACE
The two great democracies—France and Britain—hold that the German chancellor's sponsorship of the Sudeten Germans' demands for autonomy within Czechoslovakia is the chief threat to European peace.

Charles Corbin, France's ambassador to Britain, was expected in London tonight to confer with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and presumably to bring an account of the Paris government's decision.

An official announcement shortly after the British cabinet meeting said Lord Halifax made a full statement of the international situation, "and at the conclusion of the meeting of the ministers expressed their entire agreement with the action already taken and the policy to be pursued in the future."

GERMAN NAVY MANEUVERS

BERLIN. (AP) — Germany's rebuilt navy is holding maneuvers in the North Sea, it was disclosed today, while preliminary army maneuvers continued in various parts of the country and Chancellor Adolf Hitler inspected fortifications along the French and Swiss borders.

The maneuvers began last Friday and may last until the middle of September, the navy ministry said. They were described as "routine," having no connection with the Central European crisis.

(The British fleet has been ordered to the North Sea for "certain technical exercises" beginning Sept. 6, the day after the Nazi party's Nurnberg conference opens.)

Neither Hitler nor his lieutenants gave any sign they might consider the new Czechoslovak proposals. And the Nazis, in their controlled press and by official protest to Prague, assailed the Czechoslovak government with intensified bitterness.

Even before the cabinet met in Paris, French motorized units were engaged in maneuvers close to the western frontier, adjoining France.

Dies Demands Bridges Deportation Charges Be Pressed

OVERTHROW OF GOVERNMENT IS HELD HIS AIM

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Chairman Dies (D., Tex.) of the house committee investigating un-Americanism demanded today that Secretary Perkins resume deportation proceedings at once against Harry Bridges, CIO maritime leader of the West coast.

"Your file discloses a number of depositions of witnesses who testified that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist party," Dies wrote Miss Perkins after studying labor department records. "Your file also discloses ample evidence that the Communist party of the United States of America advocates and teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force and violence."

Declaring he could find no justification for postponing the case, Dies said delay might place witnesses out of reach if this had not already happened.

Proceeding against Bridges were suspended April 20 by the labor department pending a supreme court ruling in a case involving Joseph G. Strecher of Hot Springs, Ark. Immigration Commissioner James L. Houghteling had said that decision might prevent Bridges' deportation.

The New Orleans circuit court had stopped deportation of Strecher on the ground that the law does not forbid aliens to belong to the Communist or any other party except one which teaches overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States.

"I cannot see how the Strecher case would have any bearing upon the Harry Bridges case since the facts are dissimilar," Dies declared.

The committee chairman, who said a majority of the members had authorized him to write Miss Perkins, quoted extensively from labor department records about Bridges. Names of witnesses were not disclosed at the department's request.

Dies said R. P. Bonham immigration director at Seattle, had protested against suspension of the case, but was reprimanded by Houghteling on the ground that he had imperfect knowledge of the situation.

A letter from Bonham to Houghteling last May 11 was quoted by Dies as follows:

"The witnesses we had assembled for the Bridges hearing had among them some former functionaries of the (Communist) party who... would have testified to the Communist party being the American section of the communist (Communist International) and to the definite commitment to force and violence in bringing about the overthrow of our government."

Dies said Bonham wrote Edward J. Shaughnessy, deputy immigration commissioner, last Sept. 23:

"I believe it proper that I acquaint the central office with the fact that I interviewed Mr. Bridges some time ago... He boasted he had seen the central office file relating to himself and also that 'they' had an excellent 'intelligence' organization of their own that kept them well informed."

Bonham urged Shaughnessy to guard names of witnesses to appear against Bridges in order to prevent any "leak." He expressed the relief in other correspondence that there was an "air-tight" case against Bridges.

Dies quoted sworn testimony of a witness who said Bridges, while looking at United States battleships, once declared:

"We will see a day when we can sink those damn things because they are the enemy of the people."

"The witness further testified, (and on occasions he (Bridges) stated that his work-out squads in San Francisco take good care of all opponents of the labor movement of the Communist party by having them beat up, methods of driving fear into the stroying their homes and other weak workers of the waterfront."

FINAL DEMAND SENT HITLER BY BRITAIN

German frontier, on the other side of which 1,000,000 or more men stood under arms across the Reich.

In Praha Czechoslovakia's ministers, grappling with their particular phase of the war or peace problem, discussed a new plan to meet the Sudeten demand for territorial autonomy. This was understood to offer something similar to Switzerland's government by cantons.

HENLEIN'S VIEW SOUGHT
Viscount Runciman, British unofficial mediator if the Czechoslovak impasse, hoped to get the attitude of Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten German chieftain—or rather of Hitler, Henlein's backer—toward this plan today or tomorrow.

From the Balkans came support for what Britain has been trying to impress on Hitler—that he can not count on any central European ally, with the possible exception of Hungary, if war comes.

Officials of Rumania and Yugoslavia, while denying they had given any warning to Germany, indicated that their sympathies were with Czechoslovakia, with whom they are linked in the little intestine.

ENVOY ATTENDS
Chamberlain had Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, attend the conference of ministers—a rare procedure. Sir Neville was expected to remain in London several days before taking Britain's final word back to Berlin.

A score of police controlled a crowd milling in narrow, dead-end Downing street as the ministers left. The spectators intently watched the faces of the ministers as if trying to read there the answer to the question in all minds: war or peace.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and his ministers had virtually all shades of British opinion squarely behind them in a new policy of frank speaking to the Reich and grave preparations for the worst.

CROWD IS GRAVE
Nevertheless, reliable sources expressed the opinion the ministers would decide that firm but calm diplomacy was the best vehicle for a direct approach to the German chancellor.

'Rocking Chair' Strike of Mother at 'Talent Studio' Results in Return of $150

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Mrs. W. M. Smith, of Memphis, Tenn., happily stuffed $150 in her purse early today and called off her three-day sit-down "strike" at the National Talent Pictures Corp.

"I've got what I struck for," she told police. "They've paid me back the money I spent on a movie career."

The "career" was intended for 9-year-old Beverly Murray, dancing pupil of Mrs. Smith's daughter, Martha Jane. The Memphis matron claimed the studio sold her a "franchise" supposed to guarantee Beverly a role in a picture which was never made.

Income Was $2500 a Month, But Now She Has No Money

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Black gold from Oklahoma oil fields once poured $2500 a month into the pocket of her late husband, Indian Jackson Barnett, but proud, stern-faced Anna Laura Barnett is now dependent on her daughter's charity for support.

"We saved nothing, Mr. Barnett and I—the $2500 monthly was spent for living expenses," the widow told Court Commissioner Kurtz Kaufman yesterday.

Kaufman subsequently denied a writ of attachment in connection with a $15,000 judgment for legal services obtained by Attorney Paul R. Hutchinson against Mrs. Barnett last May.

Hutchinson represented her for several years in her losing appeal from federal court rulings invalidating her marriage to the aged Indian and depriving her of a share of his estate.

Railmen Will Ask Sunday Truck Ban
CHICAGO. (AP)—President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen announced today his union intended to seek legislation to bar heavy freight trucks from highways in Illinois on week-ends and holidays.

"The presence of trucks on the highways, particularly over week-ends and holidays, constitute a hazard to the motoring public," Whitney stated in a letter to Governor Homer.

JAPS VISION RUSS CLASHES

TOKYO. (AP)—War Minister Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki called for a strengthening of Japanese forces on the Siberian frontier today and listed the conditions of peace in the Chinese war.

"Our border strength in Manchoukoo must be increased," he declared in an interview in the Independent, widely circulated newspaper Nichi Nichi.

"More incidents like Changku-feng (a hill on the Korean-Siberian-Manchoukoo frontier where Soviet Russia and Japanese troops clashed between July 11 and Aug. 11, when a truce was reached) are likely to occur."

"Our border forces have been sacrificed to the fighting in China. They must be replenished, particularly the air force."

General Itagaki, who only July 25 predicted a ten-year conflict to conquer the Chinese, expressed doubt that Japan would accept even an unconditional surrender from the Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, and repeated his determination to crush the present Chinese regime.

Extension Of Civil Service Favored By S. A. City Council

CITY ATTORNEY INSTRUCTED TO PREPARE LAW

Civil service, now affecting only police and fire departments, will be extended to include virtually every other department of Santa Ana's city government, city councilmen informally decided last night.

After months of preliminary study, the council last night authorized City Atty. L. W. Blodgett working with a three-man committee of councilmen headed by Mayor Fred Rowland, to draft an ordinance setting up rules and regulations under which "the rest" of the city employees could be included under civil service.

Councilman Plummer Bruns first moved that the city attorney be instructed to draft the ordinance, but councilman later agreed to appoint the advisory committee when Blodgett said, "I don't want to take on my own shoulders the question of how broad you want to make it... whether you want to make it apply to garbage collectors, street department laborers, etc."

It was understood last night's action followed receipt of a report from the civil service commission, although no report was brought into the discussion. The council had referred the question of extending civil service to the commission early this summer.

The Santa Ana City Employees association started the original discussion of the civil service extension several months after police and fire departments were blanketed under the service after a public election last fall.

L. A. COUNTY, CITY TAX UP

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Taxes for Los Angeles city and county governments will be higher for the 1938-39 fiscal year, but city school taxes will be lower.

A county budget of $64,927,349, which is $7,769,446 greater than last year, won unanimous approval by the board of county supervisors. This calls for a tax rate of $1.51 on each $100 property valuation, 10 cents higher than that for 1937-38.

The new city tax levy ordinance providing a rate of $1.71, an increase of 13 cents, failed of adoption yesterday by the city council, and will come up again tomorrow, the last day for its adoption.

The Los Angeles board of education announced its levy will be $1.62, a drop of 8 cents from the last fiscal year.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Nurses at St. Mary's hospital today, guarding against spread of an infectious dysentery outbreak which caused the death of three infants in a maternity ward.

Sister M. Carola, superintendent, closed the ward last night to expectant mothers "for at least two or three weeks." She said staff physicians had asserted that dysentery was "fairly prevalent" in Huntington and added:

"I did not feel like taking the responsibility of keeping the department open. The remaining mothers have been isolated."

BUDAPEST (AP)—An explosion which was heard throughout downtown Budapest occurred today 44 minutes after Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungary's regent, returning from a state visit to Germany, had landed from a Danube river steamer.

Officials said the explosion had no political meaning and denied it was a demonstration against the regent.

Here's What the Council Did Last Night ...

Despite Protests Petition Signers Did Not Know What They Were Signing, John Jiles Is Voted Permit for Duplex

Despite protests voiced a month ago that petition signers "didn't know what they were signing," city councilmen last night approved a recommendation of the city planning commission that John A. Jiles be allowed to build a duplex house at Kilson drive and Beverly place.

The application for special use had been protested at a hearing early this month, and the planning commission then recommended a delay for further study. The Kilson square district is zoned for single family dwellings.

Last night's action came without a further protest. Another application for special use came from the Baptist church to erect a church on the southeast corner of Broadway and Bishop street, now zoned for single family dwellings.

Street Abandonment Voted

Abandonment of Willis street between Raitt street and the western border of Plaza Rancho became final last night, as city councilmen approved a resolution of abandonment submitted by Charles Swanner, attorney representing the Santa Ana Loan and Investment company, owner of adjacent property.

Swanner explained that since a declaration of intentions to abandon the street four weeks ago have brought no objections, the council would be legally empowered to make the abandonment final.

Assessment Is 24 Millions

Santa Ana's assessed valuation—official this time—is $24,448,385, city councilmen were told last night in a letter from County Auditor W. T. Lambert.

Lambert's figures showed real estate valuations for 1938-39 are $11,156,690; improvements, $11,141,090, and personal property, $2,440,335, for a property value on the assessment roll of $24,738,115.

Plasterers 'Warn' Council

Bent on doing something about the one-cent-per-year permit fee to do plastering in Santa Ana, members of the Orange county Plastering Contractors association will meet with city councilmen early in September, they warned the council last night.

A letter, signed by E. W. Mor-family dwellings. After councilmen had referred the application to the planning commission, the commission recommended the property be posted and a public hearing set for Sept. 6.

The Baptist church previously had been denied an application for a special use permit at Walnut and Sycamore streets.

Application of Jasper Farney, Santa Ana contractor, to erect a duplex house in a single-family district at Richland and Van Ness was recommended for posting, and a public hearing set for Sept. 6.

The application of William Iverson for a special use permit to build a court and apartment in a single-family zone on Parton street between Tenth and Washington streets, was referred to the planning commission.

Application of Charles R. Carothers, 220 East First street for a license as an auto dealer was granted by the city council last night. Carothers enclosed the $200 license fee in his application.

George W. Stovall, owner of an 11-family apartment house at 801 North Sycamore street, last night asked city councilmen to have a two-hour parking sign installed in front of his property, on grounds that his tenants could not find parking places there because of the cars parked all day by employees in the business district.

Councilmen referred the request to Lieut. B. A. Hershey of the police traffic squad.

Ethel W. Abbott, proprietor of Abbott Dance studios of Los Angeles, last night was granted a license to conduct dancing classes Wednesday afternoons in Veterans' hall here. Granting of the application was voted after Police Commissioner Plummer Bruns voiced approval.

Cooperation of the city council in granting time off to American Legion members Sept. 19-22 so they could attend the national convention in Los Angeles was sought by the Legion last night, and councilmen gave their consent by referring the communication to the various department heads with a request that they cooperate.

A grant deed from the Santa Ana Mortgage and Investment company for a right-of-way on West First street was received in a resolution adopted by the city council last night. The deed is one link in a complicated real es-tion, association secretary, asked for an appointment with the council to discuss the fee, and to determine whether the city would have a plastering inspector if there were no fee.

The council referred the communication to Mayor Fred Rowland, who agreed to contact the plasterers' association.

M. W. D. Rate Is Unchanged

The Metropolitan Water District tax rate for Santa Ana taxpayers will be 40 cents—the same as last year—Santa Ana city councilmen were informed in a letter from the district last night.

The rate includes 35 cents for interest, bond retirement and a sinking fund, and 5 cents for operating expenses.

Firemen Ask More Time Off

Demands of Santa Ana firemen for relief from duty on 12-hour shifts each month, were presented to the city council last night, and councilmen voted to take up the matter as a committee of the whole between now and next meeting.

The request was presented by

Invited to Convention

Santa Ana city councilmen were invited to a convention last night, but they didn't seem to be much impressed.

It was an invitation to the 11th annual convention of the California

Total amount to be raised is $6,639,381.90, including $5,311,505.52 for bonds and sinking funds and $1,327,876.38 for operations.

Santa Ana is expected to contribute $85,569.28 for bonds and $12,224.18 on the other charge.

Anaheim will pay $30,450.79 and $43,501.11, and Fullerton will pay $51,591.71 and $73,770.25.

On motion of Trustee Plummer Bruns, the council voted to "refer the communication to the sewer commissioner for disposal."

4 Boys Accused of Stealing Bicycle

Charges of petty theft and receiving stolen property today faced four Santa Ana boys ranging in age from 10 to 16, as the result of a bicycle theft and subsequent stripping of the vehicle.

The boys—aged 10, 13, 15 and 16—were arrested on warrants issued by Anaheim police, after parts of a bicycle stolen from the Anaheim city park were recovered in Santiago park, where the vehicle was stripped.

L. A. School Budget Attack Is Failure

SAN FRANCISCO.—The State supreme court had refused a writ of mandate to compel the Los Angeles board of education to eliminate certain items from its budget.

David E. Hinkle and Alice Clark Ryan of Los Angeles, who petitioned for the writ, contended budget items of $2,506,250 for lands and new buildings, $345,000 for undistributed reserves and $404,551 for district retirement appropriations were illegal.

'FROZEN MOTOR' VERDICT WILL BE APPEALED

George J. Avas, Santa Ana cafe proprietor, today appealed to superior court from a judgment by Justice Kenneth Morrison awarding him only $11.25 on a $200.15 lawsuit over a "frozen" motor in Avas' car.

Avas filed the suit after his motor had been damaged last Nov. 6. Coming out of the El Sombrero cafe on 101 highway, he said, he saw that another car had bumped into his parked auto, rolling the front wheels over a curbing.

He failed to notice that the curbing had scraped off the plug on the bottom of his car's crankcase, causing the oil to run out. He got in, started his motor and drove for several miles before his motor, running without oil, "froze."

He claimed his insurance agents, the Automobile Indemnity Exchange of Orange county, owed not only for a banged fender but for the motor. Judge Morrison ruled Avas should have looked under the car and discovered the oil; and gave the plaintiff judgment for the fender damage, $11.25.

Speaker

George M. Rankin, director of lighting for the Southern California Edison company and one of California's best known illuminating engineers, will be the speaker at tomorrow's meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club. His subject will be "Three Second Selling." J. S. Hill is program chairman.

MEXICO MINES WILL BE TOPIC

Present mining conditions in Mexico will be the theme of A. M. McDermott's talk tonight when he addresses members of the local 20-30 club in Daniger's cafe, according to Ted Johnston, program chairman.

McDermott is a local mining engineer who has had wide experience in Mexico. He has specialized in gold and silver mines, according to Johnston.

The subject is particularly appropriate now because of the attitude of the Mexican government toward mining of that government's natural resources, Johnston said.

"Farming Trends in Orange County" is the subject upon which Harold Wahlberg, Orange county farm adviser, will speak next Tuesday before the 20-30 group.

Slight Drop in Oil

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The production of crude oil in all the fields of the United States declined 1997 barrels daily to an average of 3,395,059 for the week ending Aug. 27, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

creases in pay. Who wants to run a railroad, anyway?

My contacts today consisted mostly of candidates. There was a similarity of opinion among them all. They agreed that the end of the primary campaign was welcomed.

Hot wind yesterday, temperature little too up to provide comfort for most of the people who make Orange county their home, unless they were beach residents. For a brief time considerable nervousness prevailed for fear a desert wind might decide to make us a visit. If there is ever an incivility justifiable it is when one slams the door in the face of those burning winds which sweep in from the hot spots east of San Bernardino. Why should Santa Ana take it? Those winds do not originate in this city.

Police News

Neighbors complained of a noisy tennis party on the courts in the 1200 block on South Broadway shortly before midnight last night.

Signs on the two rest rooms at the Union Oil company service station at Seventeenth street and Broadway were reported stolen yesterday. Gilbert Yorba, station attendant, said they were worth $1.

Theft of a $75 portable typewriter by a sneak thief who entered his establishment at 824 West Third street some time last week was reported yesterday by William Hunt.

Lupe Calvillo, 22, 902 Logan street, was arrested by police yesterday on an assault-and-battery warrant issued in city court.

I Just Found Out About Orange County

By MILLARD BROWNE

Builders

In event you're planning a typical $7000 house in Santa Ana, you stand to give work to around 50 men, representing 20-odd separate crafts. But that wouldn't scratch the surface of the extensive building business, No. 3 industry in the county.

In Orange county, for instance, there are 153 different crafts connected with the building industry—from carpenters to jackhammer operators (and including Terrazo workers' helpers and a few other crafts you may never have heard of).

The county has 190 licensed general contractors, and general contractors are just one of 62 classifications for which the state gives licenses.

In your typical $7000 house, not all of the 50 men you'd put to work would overrun the lot at the same time, of course. One small crew would come in to clean up the land and dig the basement; then there'd be other small crews until the last finish carpenter got out of the way so you could move in.

Assuming your home is to be a typical one, built in a typical way by a local contractor, it would line up something like this:

First, you'd hire an architect (he gets 10 per cent) to draw plans and specifications and to make sure the plans are lived up to every step of the way. Then you'd get a bunch of contractors to look over the plans, and after they'd trooped around to get estimates on sub-contract work, chances are one of them would come back with a low bid of around $6300.

Average set of plans for a new house includes four kinds, plus another two or three pages for details. First is a plot plan showing where the house sits in relation to the lot; second is a foundation plan which tells cement contractors where to pour foundation concrete; third is a floor plan; fourth is a set of elevation plans showing front, rear and side views. Most plans are drawn to scale, one-fourth inch to a foot.

General contractor who builds your house ordinarily will take care of clearing the lot, excavations, concrete and cement work, form materials, rough lumber, mill work, steel reinforcing, carpentry work and such legal wrinkles as getting a city permit and paying for insurance and taxes.

He'll sublet from 12 to 20 items of the work, depending on the contractor, though, and separate craftsmen will be in charge of it, responsible to the general contractor, not to the owner.

Typical home, for instance, might include a $675 item for plastering under sub-contract, $220 for roofing, $350 for flooring, $130 for hardware, $15 for iron work, $530 for plumbing, $125 for heating, $185 for wiring, $350 for painting.

Before contractors ever make their bids, they see sub-contractors get an estimate from them. Plasterer will scan the plans, figure his work by the square yard; electrician will check the number of outlets, footage of wire needed to reach them; roofer will make his bid according to the kind of material and the square yards; cement contractor will estimate his material and labor cost; painter will bid according to the number of coats and the square yards, and so on through a dozen other craftsmen.

All these people who enter bids must have state licenses, too. General contractor pays $10 for a license, $5 annually to renew it. To get a license, he needs the endorsement of a contractor he's worked for, another from a bank and several others to show he's financially and professionally responsible.

Contractors' licenses are handled by a state registrar of contractors, whose deputies make frequent checks to make sure jobs are being done by licensed men (any job worth $100 or more must be by a licensed contractor).

State registrar has four classifications—A, B, C and D—of contractors. Engineering contractors (there are 23 in the county) are only ones in Class A; general builders are only Class B contractors, and special contractors (for sale) are the only ones in Class D. Class C, however, has 6 sub-classifications running alphabetically from acoustical contractors (C-1), and there's only one in the county) to the welding contractors (C-60).

Coordinating organization for local construction men is the Builders Exchange, which serves as a clearing house between many general contractors and sub-contractors, also serves as a point of contact where the public can get together with financially responsible contractors and craftsmen.

G. W. Bassett, as secretary-manager of the exchange, does the clearing house work, has numerous statistical jobs, such as compiling comparative wage scales (building crafts' wages in Orange county range from 56 cents to $1.50 an hour), keeping track of the number of men employed in various crafts. Wage records often particularly important, since many federal and state contracts are dependent on specified wage scales.

County Walnut Growers To Discuss Prospects Tomorrow

EXPERTS WILL DISCUSS CROP MARKETING

The latest walnut crop outlook for California and Orange county, as well as the market situation, will be outlined at the county-wide meeting tomorrow at 1:30 p. m., at the Willard Junior High school, Santa Ana.

Harvesting recommendations to secure better walnut grades and return to the grower will be presented by M. H. Kimball of the agricultural extension service and Lee Braucher of the association field department.

FISHING

ALONG THE COAST
—with—
ANDY ANDERSON

Week Ending August 28
If ocean anglers have as much trouble taking fish the last part of this season as they have had during the first part, 1938 undoubtedly will go down in the history of the worst of all time, at least as far as the live bait boats are concerned.

Experts differ in their opinions as to the cause. The majority of them claim there's too much bait in the water. Such may be the case, but we believe the live bait furnished by the boats this year has been the worst in recent years. We will admit that there is an abundance of small bait in the water, but the size of medium sized and large bait is startling.

Another factor that can't be overlooked is the growth of the sportfishing industry. Year after year new boats go into operation, and fish traps are set out in the water, where operators release several scoops of bait daily as a lure in order to bring the fish to their boat for their passengers. When the boats conclude the day's activities and start the homeward journey, the bait is left on the banks for the fish to feed on during the night.

The purse seiners can be blamed for much of the trouble also. They too, have increased in startling numbers during the last few years. They not only deplete the fish stock, but make those lucky enough to escape their nets very boat-shy. We were recently told by a boat operator that he has abandoned the old idea of circling a fish trap and setting it, that he has had a school sound several times by such procedure because that is the method used by the purse boats. He now cuts his motor and drifts onto the banks, and has had fair results by using this method.

Rough waters might be blamed for the catch record. This is the most places during the past week. Large ground swells and chops caused the Catalina trip to be a miserable one, and strong currents at the island were indirectly blamed for the poor catches.

Scattered schools of albacore are in the channel, and a few skipjack hit the west end of the island Friday, and boat operators are looking forward to catches of these fish soon. Let's hope the run equals that of two years ago.

Chesterfield Launches New And Lively Advertising

Calling all cigarette smokers with a new national advertising campaign Liggett & Myers Tobacco company once again reminds hundreds of millions of newspaper readers to "smoke Chesterfield—for more pleasure."

Each advertisement of the new series, which will continue through the week of October 31, shows Chesterfield smokers and Chesterfield Cigarettes in lively, human situations. The campaign theme is repeated in national magazine advertising and in colorful billboards and point-of-sale displays.

Assisting the newspaper campaign, four separate Chesterfield radio programs will be on the air from coast-to-coast. Besides the Paul Whiteman broadcasts on Wednesday, a new program featuring Burns and Allen begins Friday, September 30, a new football broadcast by Eddie Dooley begins Thursday, September 22, and the current Paul Douglas sports reviews will continue through the baseball season.

The 1938 Chesterfield advertising has been steadily popular with the public and tobacco retailers because it advertises Chesterfield Cigarettes for the smoking pleasure they give. The "Pleasure" illustrations are backed up with interesting copy which shows that the Chesterfield way to real smoking pleasure is to age, blend and manufacture choice tobacco in the way that makes a cigarette better-tasting, mild and completely pure.

Plenty of Ribbons

Santa Ana horse riders will compete for some of the ribbons and trophies pictured here which will be awarded to participants in the annual Recreation Days celebration at Downey, Sept. 9-10. Misses Mary Cramline and Betty Watson agree there should be plenty for all.

Nearly 20 southland communities, including Santa Ana, will take part in the annual Recreation Days celebration to be staged in Downey on Sept. 9-10. The Santa Ana Saddle Pals will enter the celebration parade, highlight of the event held by the pioneer southland community. Also riding from here will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waer and George Boyd who will serve as flag bearer for the equestrian division.

The Recreation Days celebration, which this year is sponsored jointly by the Los Angeles county department of parks and recreation and the Downey chamber of commerce, will have wider participation than ever before, chairmen promise. James K. Reid, county recreation superintendent, is honorary chairman of the event. A Downey pioneers' picnic will open the program of festivities on Friday. Old timers who first came to the Southland a half and three-quarters of a century ago are expected to attend. On the same afternoon a county-wide arts and crafts exhibit will be displayed in the Downey high school gymnasium. In the evening the annual recreation pageant will be presented by county district number one. Hundreds of playground children will be seen in spectacular pageantry.

It was planned that a dance be given this Saturday in the Townsend hall. The next meeting of the group will be held on the fourth Friday of next month.

Reports have it that a school of yellowfin tuna and skipjack hit the west end of the island Friday, and boat operators are looking forward to catches of these fish soon. Let's hope the run equals that of two years ago.

DEVELOPMENT 'MASTER PLAN' WINS AT BEACH

NEWPORT BEACH.—Unanimous approval of the "master plan" of municipal development was given by the city planning commission here last night, and immediate recommendation of the plan will be made to the city council, it was announced by Harold Hopkins, chairman.

The city council is expected to set a date for a bond election within the next few days.

There was only slight discussion at the final hearing last night, the planning commissioners already having endorsed the program several days ago.

The "master plan" calls for a total expenditure of approximately $525,000, and includes the construction of a city hall, various recreational projects, additions and repairs to sewer and water systems, street improvements and two street light installation projects.

PWA applications for aid in the program have been filed.

ART CLASS FORMED
COSTA MESA.—An art class is being organized here in pastel and water color classes will be held Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at Miss Johnson's shop, and will be in charge of Mrs. Smalley.

Julie Hamilton, small-town Southern girl, has drifted into a half-hearted engagement to Kenneth Terry, but she longs for romance with a capital R. When he comes under the spell of Isolde Fleming, glamorous visitor from New York, Julie is indifferent. On the day before her birthday, a handsome young tramp faints at her back door. Reviving, he says he is Barry Caldwell, from the West, and is hiking to New York for a radio audition. Meanwhile Isolde, who has seen him from next door, has reported him to the police as a "suspicious character," but when they come looking for him, Julie hides him in the garage. The next day, she takes him to her birthday party, providing him with clothes she steals from Kenneth. At the party, she introduces him as a rancher, and pays so much attention to him that Kenneth is jealous. He accuses him, then, suddenly, Isolde denounces him as a "common tramp," and asks Julie to explain her deception.

CHAPTER IX
Julie could do nothing but stare speechlessly at Isolde. But Barry rose superbly to the situation. With every one's gaze upon him, he shrugged his broad shoulders and grinned.

"The cat seems to be out of the bag," he murmured. Then, glancing round the room, he addressed Isolde to every one there. "But like most half-truths, what the young lady with the green eyes has said makes things sound much worse than they actually are."

He paused. Julie, watching him, marveled at his poise.

"I am not actually a tramp," he continued. "I happen to be hiking to New York with the hope of winning a radio audition. Yesterday, I stopped at this house to ask for a drink of water, and had the misfortune to faint. He made a wry face. Being low in funds, I have not eaten very regularly of late, and therefore was weak from hunger."

"Miss Hamilton had the kindness to put me up for the night in the quarters over the garage. This morning, when I was preparing to go on my way, she asked me to stay for her party and generously provided me with these clothes. If ever the owner wishes to step forward to me, I'll be glad to go. I don't think I did it for your sake. You're an incorrigible little brat and deserve a sound spanking for getting yourself into this mess!"

"Do you honestly blame me for that?" Julie said, glancing toward Barry's lean, clean-cut profile.

Normandy's gaze followed hers. "Well, he does appear to be on the level," he admitted cautiously. "But as the official getter-of-Julie-out-of-scraps I'm going to do some private checking-up on the young man. I happen to know Arizona like a book, and his story had better be good. As you know, I prospected the West for several years in my youth."

"I'm not worried about what you'll discover," Julie's chin was uplit.

Normandy sighed. He had been like a big brother to Julie for many years and was used to her impulsive actions. But she had outdone herself this time. Taking in this stranger, and inviting him to her party! Not only that, but flirting with him outrageously! Flouting him before Kenneth! Was she just trying to get even with Kenneth or was she really interested in this Westerner?

Well, at any rate, he must check up on the fellow. He patted Julie's hand, and moved away toward Barry.

A moment later, Kenneth looked at Julie's side. His face was flushed with his own bluntness.

"You and I," he said harshly "are due for a show-down!"

Impressive installation of officers, the second such ceremony to be conducted by Santa Ana's Psi chapter of Delta Theta Chi sorority, was held last night in conjunction with a formal dinner party at Daniger's, with Miss Alice Whitte assuming the president's chair in place of Miss Bette Vorce, first president of the chapter who served during the past year.

Miss Vorce, wearing coral taffeta with a brief bolero, officiated at the rites, conferring her gavel first upon Miss Whitte, who wore teal blue moire with rhinestone buttons. Following her induction into office came the installation of Miss Frances Hill, in soft pink lace, to the vice-presidency; Miss Daisy Carr, in shell pink ruffled net, as recording secretary; Miss Irene Ross, in peacock blue taffeta with ruffled bolero, as corresponding secretary; and Miss Adeline Loptien, wearing pale pink net with white patent polka dots, as treasurer.

Rites were held at the dinner table, which was banked in ferns and mounted with candelabras with gold and silver. Sorority colors of brilliant green and gold were in evidence in linens and pottery, as well as in all details of the menu, and flowers were gold zinnias.

In an honored place was Mrs. T. E. McLeod, advisor to the group, who wore a frock of sky blue and white flowered mousseline de soie. A feature of the affair was presentation of a handsome jeweled past president's pin to Miss Vorce at the conclusion of the installation.

Other members present were Miss Norma Jean Kenny in Alice blue moire, Miss Leone Baxter in powder blue chiffon, Miss Mary Bowyer in India red taffeta, and Mrs. Emmett Seacord in salmon pink.

LITTLE DINNER PARTY IS ENJOYABLE

Mrs. Alex Brownbridge was hostess at an informal little dinner party Saturday evening, with honored guest being Miss Carolyn Nevling who leaves soon for Brooklyn, N. Y., to visit her sister after making her home for the past two years with a former school teaching mate, Mrs. Colleen Clark of Laguna Beach. Mrs. Clark, with her daughter, June, was also present, and related many interesting anecdotes of her recent vacation in Sioux City, Iowa, home town of herself and Miss Nevling.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Third Ebell Household Economics section will hold its September picnic, Friday at Santiago park, at 12:30. Members are to bring a covered dish and their table service.

Large Party Planned At Country Club

Imminence of September hustle and bustle was felt at a meeting of directors' wives of the Santa Ana Country club last night, held as usual at the A. G. Flagg residence. Return vacationers and the start of all fall festivities was basis for scheduling a program that varies slightly from the enjoyable affair that have filled the spring and summer calendar.

Instead of the customary evening bridge party, the group has planned a large public card party to be held Sept. 29 with Mrs. Hugh J. Lowe as general chairman. Proceeds of the affair will go towards buying new lamps and various appointments that will complete the club's decoration.

Mrs. M. B. Wellington was appointed general chairman of all September activities, following in the capable footsteps of Mrs. Emil Wagner. The latter, on being praised for her successful staging of buffet suppers and the several August parties, gave special credit to Giovanni Ceitus, who planned and executed all refreshments.

The customary bridge tea will be given Sept. 23, with Mrs. Clyde Walker and Mrs. George Walker as hostesses, and with luncheon optional beforehand. The Junior dance will be held Sept. 9, and an adult dance will be held the last week of the month, with the exact date to be announced later.

Buffet supper hosts announced by Mrs. Wellington for the month include herself and Col. Wellington, Mona Summers Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hoiles, Sept. 4; Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffrey and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Huber, Sept. 11; Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Walker, Sept. 18; and Judge and Mrs. James Tucker, Sept. 25.

DEPARTURE FOR COLLEGE FETED

A pretty compliment to Mrs. Eleanor N. Engelke and her daughter, Miss Muriel, was the party given last evening by Mrs. Italy Lee and Mrs. Marie Peterman in the home of the former. The two honorees will leave this week-end for Pennsylvania, where Miss Muriel will attend the state college this coming year. Her mother will remain with her during that time.

The two hostesses had arranged dainty guest awards for the travelers, presented at the time that high scores were added, and first and second prizes were presented Mrs. Walter Kubitz and Miss Martha Garthe. Mrs. Eleanor Hoyt was given a consolation prize.

Rust and yellow predominated in color tones, with individual refreshment tables centered by small bubble bowls.

Guests of Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Peterman were Mrs. Engelke, Miss Engelke, Mrs. Kubitz, Miss Martha Garthe, Mrs. Eleanor Hoyt, Miss Hattie Bessler, Mrs. W. H. Wyckoff, Miss Mildred Hildebrand, Miss Alma Garthe and Mrs. Mathilde Crowell.

PEGASUS MEETS AGAIN

Pegasus club will resume its fortnightly meetings this coming Thursday, after having recessed since last June.

The literary organization will convene at noon for a garden party and potluck luncheon at the home of Mrs. Ray Brown, 922 South Ross street.

NOTED ACTOR IS TO APPEAR HERE TOMORROW

A fitting climax to the enjoyable series of play-review teas which have been given on Wednesdays of this summer at the Unitarian church will be this week's finale, when Wadsworth Harris of Los Angeles, distinguished stage and screen actor, will be guest artist.

The honor guest was for many years a featured actor with Madame Modjeska and with Mrs. Leslie Carter and of late years has interspersed his picture engagements with popular club and reading programs for clubs and churches.

Harris' associations go far back into American literary history. His mother was a descendant of Emerson and of Longfellow. Katherine Lee Bates is his warm personal friend and often requested him to read before audiences at Wellesley college where she was teaching while he was playing in Boston with Modjeska.

The recital dramatic which Mr. Harris is to give in Santa Ana Wednesday at four o'clock is compiled for some of the dramatic passages from Shakespeare, some of other dramatic productions in which he has played, and anecdotes on the life and works of Longfellow which were household traditions in the home of his youth.

Ernest Crozier Phillips, long-time friend and former dramatic associate of Mr. Harris, will present him to the audience at the church tomorrow. The public is cordially invited to the non-profit affair, and a tea will be served at five o'clock in the garden.

MAGILLS ARE HOME FROM PLEASANT TRIP

A vacation packed with enjoyment has just been completed by Dr. Peryl Magill, Miss Julia Magill and their nephew, Warren. First stop on their trip was at a ghost mining town, Virginia City in Nevada. From there they went on to Emerald bay and Lake Tahoe for a week-end. Richbar on the Feather river, where they visited friends and enjoyed fishing and swimming for four days, was their next stop.

Driving on to Boonville, Mendocino county, they were guests of Dr. Edward and Dr. Dorothy Jordt, former Santa Anans. With the Jordts and their son, David, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown, the Magills went on a four-day camping trip, packing in by burrowing into the deep redwood country. A short fishing trip to the Mendocino coast was a highlight of the visit.

PARTY IS SURPRISE TO CELEBRANT

Saturday being the fourteenth anniversary of Bill Haarstad's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haarstad of 820 East Second street, had arranged a surprise party. A group of his friends met at the Haarstad home before attending a show. Later they returned for an evening of games and dancing.

Refreshments were served from a pretty buffet, the featured centerpiece being a huge cake, lighted with small candles. Invited to share the evening's fun were the Misses Rose Anderson, Evelyn and Ruth Dockett, Effie Burroughs, Neva Haslet, Evila Kirk, Louise Kenzy, Thelma Steen, and Glen Walker, Lesly Gaines, Fred Wilson, Bill Chapman, Fred Williams, Walter and Richard Duckett, Bob Kenzy and the honor guest.

B. AND P. W. ENJOY PICNIC SUPPER

Another of their several pleasantly informal summer meetings was enjoyed by members of Business and Professional Women's club last night when they gathered at Santiago park for a picnic supper.

Miss Martha Whitson, Miss Damaris Beeman and Miss Lena Thomas were in charge of the affair, which was attended by Harriet Whidden, Lulu Ott, Louise Chapman, Abbie Chapman, Jean Humphrey, Mary Hilyard, Marie Fowler, Lorraine French, Ethel Hedrick, Elizabeth Perkins, Eleanor Elliott, Martha Whitson, Olivia Clark, Mabel Cole, Ethel Coffman, Laura McNaught, Alice Wassed, Helen Gallagher, Alma Karlsson, Damaris Beeman, Arma Zimmerman, Hazel Northeros, Lena Thomas, Lula Finley, Dora Doyle and Dr. Mary Wright.

DOZEN ARE ENTERTAINED AT LAGUNA

The second lovely party to be given in the colorful and informal atmosphere of her Laguna Beach home within the week was a delightful luncheon hosted yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Robert T. Hill of Santa Ana.

A dozen friends lunched in the attractive living room overlooking the ocean, and later enjoyed contract. Gay little table prizes were presented Mrs. L. G. Swales, Mrs. I. F. Landis, and Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon for their high scores at the close of the afternoon.

Miss Martha and Miss Robert T. Hill aided their mother in serving, as they did last Thursday, also.

Here Are Three Versions of Glamour That the Parisians Have Designed for the Seashore

Paquin of Paris contributes these three ideas for glamour at the seashore. At right is a dark blue linen beach coat whose top and skirt are worked with fabric strips to reveal the skin through diamond-shaped openings. More open work appears in the beach coat and swim suit of cinnamon brown linen at the left, worn with "mermaid" seashell jewelry and a huge brown hat. Blue and white print makes the demure beach dress in the center.

CHILD STAR IS GUEST OF SANTA ANAN

When Edith Fellows, Columbia picture star, visited Santa Ana last Saturday evening, where she made a personal appearance at a showing of her latest vehicle, "City Streets," she was a guest in the home of Mrs. J. N. Harper of 1042 West Fifth street.

Mrs. Harper who has had Miss Fellows as a guest before, had decorated her home with many bowls of dahlias and delphinium. A midnight supper had been prepared for the guests at a charmingly appointed buffet.

Other guests of Mrs. Harper, were the Caprino sisters, a noted vaudeville team who have just returned from Honolulu, where they were entertainers in the Royal Hawaiian hotel, Al Romane of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Gullidge, and son, Raymond, Mrs. Robinson and son, Clarence, and Dale of Fullerton, and Mrs. Susanne Garland of Chicago, who has been spending the summer months at the Harper residence.

TEA PLANNED FOR THIS FRIDAY

Officers of the Woman's auxiliary of the Episcopal church of the Messiah have invited church members and friends to a tea this coming Friday from two to four o'clock at the home of Miss Minnie Besser, 2040 North Ross street. The affair is expected to be particularly pleasant and an interesting start of fall activities.

There will be a regular meeting of the auxiliary Wednesday, Sept. 7, at 2 p. m. in the parish hall.

SURPRISE DINNER MARKS BIRTHDAY

As Sunday was the birthday anniversary of Claude Neer, Mrs. Neer had arranged to surprise her husband with a dinner party in the afternoon.

The Neer home, 1323 Louise street, had been decorated with many blossoms in pink and yellow shades, and the dinner table was appointed in the same motif—with a huge bowl of pink and yellow baby zinnias as the centerpiece.

Following the dinner hour, guests were invited to attend the affair. Present at the pleasant affair were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jester and daughter, Beverly, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Van Epps and Mr. and Mrs. Neer and children, Dean and Carrol Ann.

Your Baby Book

By CARO COCAN

Getting her new fall wardrobe all ready for that big event, which comes in the life of every young lady, kindergarten, is little Miss Carol Ann Neer. She is the proud possessor of seven new frocks, if you please, but it's going to be somewhat of a struggle to get her to part with those cool little sun suits which have been a great aid to her sun tan, which, by the way, is a lovely deep gold, offsetting Carol's hazel eyes, and dark brown hair. She is the daughter of the Claude Neers, of 1323 Louise street. Carol Ann gracefully combines the tomboy spirit with a matronly air, for wherever she goes, her "baby," Sally Jane is sure to be tucked under her arm, the latter being a pretty doll.

Another cutie is little Gayle Hinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hinson. He lives at 1628 West Ninth street. Somewhat of a flirt, he has that certain something it takes to make life successful. . . . That which is now the watercolor painting of Marion Curtis, who can say she has only been rejected from one coast show since she started exhibiting! Hung in Santa Ana public library today, this painting is marked by an intense interest in both subject matter and technique. Again, it is not the finished effort of a mature painter, but a forthright step toward a brilliant career in what I still insist is a difficult medium.

Her hills can be firm, drenched with color. They can be posies lighter than the clouds above them, but each paper is a definite experiment, a step toward mastery. Marion Curtis has that singing tone, a lyricism, to give to watercolor painting! Naturally, since this is a step in the development of a watercolor painter, there are certain highlights in the painting. But judging by this show, I believe Marion Curtis has before her a most interesting career.

Marion Curtis is truly a California painter, for she has never been out of the state, not even into Mexico (although she went once to look at the borderline). She attended Manual Arts high school, Los Angeles, went on to Chouinard. Fruett Curtis was her first teacher at Chouinard, but intermittently she has had the instruction of Phil Dyke, of Einar Hansen and Phil Paradise in this same school. She was given first prize for wood sculpture with her "Debutante" head at Pomona fair last year, has just received first prize for an oil in the Spanish Village fiesta exhibition now on.

She has just begun to examine lithography, although one of her friends is in the San Francisco museum annual. Marion Curtis hopes to be accepted into the California Society of Watercolor Painters this fall. Her painting here augurs well!

BARSE MILLER The enthusiastic comment of Arthur Miller in the Sunday Times concerning Barse Miller's show at Tone Price Galleries, Hollywood, is heartening applause for what has been termed the "Orange County Renaissance." Miller lives at La Canada, out has found his more interesting papers in Orange county. He is not loath to becoming known as an Orange county painter.

This county, with unparalleled living and recreational facilities, can give a most hospitable welcome to people of the arts. Will we?

ACTRESS IS DINNER GUEST OF FOSTERS

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foster of 1129 South Birch street had the pleasure of a visit Sunday from an old friend who lived in Eureka, Kan., at the time of their residence there.

Miss Mardella Zwicker is known as Clara Owens in motion pictures in which she is featured frequently. She was accompanied to Santa Ana by her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Zwicker and her sister, Miss Fern Zwicker as well as several Hollywood friends.

The entire group enjoyed a delicious dinner prepared by Mrs. Foster, followed by conversation and the taking of moving pictures.

THREE HAVE PERFECT RECORDS

Honorable mention for their perfect attendance records during the year was accorded Flora Margaret Howland, Grace Howland and Mary Jane Pearson at a meeting of King's Guard class of the First Methodist church yesterday afternoon.

The session marked the close of the official year, with the group planning to convene again Sept. 19 at 3 p. m. Miss Flora Margaret Howland presided over a business session, and Miss Beverly Jean Snow conducted the stewardship ritual.

A mitebox professional, with yearly reports and presentation of individual scrapbooks to take home featured the day. Present for the meeting were Miss Flora Margaret Howland, Miss Grace Howland, Miss Mary Jane Pearson, Miss Beverly Jean Snow, Miss Doris Marie Barton, and Richard Luhrs, with Mrs. C. H. Jeffrey, Miss Mary Lamb, and Mrs. H. I. Tway.

GARDEN STUDY Garden Study club will meet Friday, Sept. 2, at the home of Mrs. C. W. Harrison, corner of Ocean and Narcissus street, Corona del Mar. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m.

Word was received by their many Santa Ana friends and relatives last week of the birth of a baby daughter Aug. 18 to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Switzler of Pittsburg, Calif.

The Switzlers lived in Santa Ana for many years, where he was manager of Rankin's store. He is now head of the Pittsburg Montgomery Ward store. Mr. and Mrs. Switzler have not as yet named their daughter, who is their third. Their other girls are named Shirley Jean and Sally Ray.

TRAVELER VISITS IN SANTA ANA

The Rev. Milford Tibball and Mrs. Tibball of 2104 Santiago street have had as week-end guests their niece, Miss Olive Hutchinson, and her father, D. F. Hutchinson, of Highland Park, former residents of Santa Ana.

Miss Hutchinson has recently returned from a three months' trip abroad. She is the secretary of Dr. Remus Bird, president of Occidental college, which position she has held for the past ten years. When the college board met early in the year, members voted that Miss Hutchinson be given a vacation, to spend in travel, with expenses paid by the school.

DRUNK FINES IN ONE DAY TOTAL $950

Drunk fines totaling $950 were levied by City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday in the busiest Monday session of the police court this year.

Four of the five accused drunk drivers pleaded guilty and elected jail terms instead of paying fines; the fifth, A. Carrion, Santa Ana, pleaded guilty, paid $50 of his $150 fine and arranged to pay the balance at $15 a month.

Other drunk driving cases: Alfonso S. Trujillo, Anaheim, $300 or $150 days in jail; Clarence L. Cameron, Santa Ana, $150 or 75 days; Guadalupe Sepulveda, Santa Ana, $200 or 100 days; and Albert F. Tracy, Los Angeles, $150 or 75 days.

Maria Perez, Santa Ana, pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace of Mrs. Lupe Jurado and family and was given a 30-day jail sentence, suspended on condition he refrain from molesting the Jurados.

Speeding fines were levied against John H. Wright, Huntington Beach, $8, and Albert Reyes, Tustin, $6. Three motorists paid $5 boulevard stop fines: William B. Kopping, Santa Ana; Clair L. Smith, Midway City; and Frank A. Vindola, Cucamonga.

Jose Guffin, Anaheim, paid $2 for double parking, and Janet Le Bar and William R. Hynds, Santa Ana, each paid $1 for overtime parking.

Expert, Now in Santa Ana, Details Advantages of Knit Garments for Women

Are you a "matcher" or a "mixer"—we mean with your sweaters and skirts?

"You're right either way," says Miss Thelma Overholt, stylist and washability expert who is promoting woolens at Rankin's this week.

"It's extremely smart to buy or knit yourself a sweater that's dyed to match the color of your skirt exactly," she says. "But you can also get together some striking outfits if you mix colors skillfully. Two or three different sweaters and skirts can be made to look like half a dozen costumes if you buy colors you can interchange."

"For additional variety, you might twist a bright silk scarf around your neck or decorate yourself with an amusing neck lace, picking up the color of your other accessories, matching your skirt, or one of the colors in your sweater."

"A collared blouse under a pull-over is smart and young looking, too. If you don't want the extra warmth, you can do as a lot of college girls do, wear a 'false front'—a collared gilet."

"Sweaters are virtually a uniform at schools and colleges. One

Grandmother Entitled to
Love of Her Only Son's
Little Boy

In the quiet, changeless presence of death, trifling human bickering ceases, as a rule. Families are united, scars are healed. Life, for the moment at least, is reduced to stark simplicity and small badgerings and naggings and misunderstandings are forgotten between those who stand confronted by the eternal calm of the grim reaper.

It is in those suspended hours before the living take up the rhythm of life again, after the death of a beloved one, that miracles of readjustment can be wrought. The crystal well springs of the spirit are flowing, and the heart is full of tender memories, washed clear by grief, of bitterness and distrust.

Those hours of waiting, when life seems to stop for the living as well as the dead, can be precious balm for healing the wounds of the bereft ones. If there has been lack of unity between those who loved the one that is gone, here is the opportunity to transfer the love for the lost one to the living who need it so sorely at this moment.

"Dora" writes: "I was married seven years ago. My husband was the only child of a devoted, widowed mother whose very love for him was his final destruction. We lived together for four years and, finally, after years of torture from unspeakable cruelty on his part, I left him, taking my baby, and he went back to his mother. I never divorced him, but I never saw him, nor did he come near the baby. I have an adequate income from an estate, and it was not necessary to ask for any help from him or his mother. Finally, after years of tragic procession in and out of mental hospitals and drink cures, he died. That is a week ago. His mother never understood why I left him, and has never asked to see the baby, although when he was born she was overwhelmed with affection for the child. She is utterly alone, in straitened circumstances from the long drain of my husband's illness, and I would like to make her know that she is welcome to see the boy and be friends with me if she wishes. The child is beautiful and affectionate and, as both my parents are dead, she is the only grandparent the child has.

"I want her to know that if there is any estate that I wish to waive all rights to it in her favor, but I want to do it in a loving and kindly way."

"Although she was very bitter when I left my husband, and blamed me for his final descent into mental and physical decline, I'm sure in her heart of hearts she must know the truth now. 'I want to do the right thing, and the kind thing. Please tell me how to go about it.'"

You'd better go and see her instead of writing. Take the child with you, and tell the youngster that he is going to see his grandmother. He will not be strange and diffident. So as to soften any impression he might get, in case his grandmother is still bitter, tell him beforehand that she has had a great sorrow and may seem strange in consequence, but that she really loves him, and that he must try to make her feel that he loves her.

Then go simply and kindly, one woman to another. Her lonely heart is probably so empty that she will welcome any love that comes to her. The soft little hands of a grandchild should certainly be strong enough to draw you together.

If she repulses you, don't be discouraged. Be gentle and kind and go away, and then write her the note, still in a friendly mood, not excusing yourself, nor blaming your husband. Tell her that your little boy is waiting to know and love his only grandmother, and that you hope she will not deprive him of the privilege of her affection. Invite her specifically for lunch or dinner on a set date, just for the three of you, and ask her to let you know if she can come.

Then if finally she is still unconvinced, you will at least have done all that you can to patch things up. Somehow, I feel that she will respond to your generous gesture, and be glad beyond any imaginings to have her little grandchild to take the pain out of her heart.

9 DEAD, 400 HOMELESS IN MEXICO FLOOD

MONTEREY, Mexico. (AP)—Nine persons were known dead and more than 400 families were homeless in this northeastern Mexico industrial center today as an aftermath of a hurricane that swept inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

The gale brought torrential rains to this area—nine inches in 36 hours—and sent creeks and rivers on sudden rises. Eight of the listed dead were motorists caught in the flooding streams.

The toll in life and property loss is expected to be multiplied several times when reports are received from Ciudad Victoria, 100 miles southeast, which still is isolated.

Jose C. Plowell, vity editor of El Porvenir, Monterrey newspaper, said it was believed that the storm here "was mild compared with the havoc wrought at Ciudad Victoria," more directly in the path of the hurricane.

Military and municipal authorities concentrated on providing shelter for the homeless, many of whom were injured or ill. Public buildings offered temporary haven.

Plowell said no deaths had been reported among tourists "but there apparently were many tourists caught in the storm on the road to Mexico City and Ciudad Victoria." He said automobiles of several American tourists were swept away by floodwaters of the Santa Catarina river as they were en route from Saltillo to Monterrey. Among the bodies recovered was that of Jose Maria Gonzales, prominent merchant of Monterrey.

2 BIRTHDAYS CELEBRATED

GARDEN GROVE. — Eastern Star members of the Garden Grove chapter celebrated the birthday anniversaries of their worthy matron and patron, Mrs. Clara and Norman E. Bryan, who presided for the business session. A set of rock crystal with service for eight was presented them by the chapter with guests presenting them numerous other gifts.

Guests included the worthy matrons and patrons of several chapters of the county, who were honored by being escorted to the east. These were Helen Lurker and Fred Pope of Hermosa chapter, Santa Ana; Hermine Lowe and Emil Roddeck, Yorba Linda; Bell Kuehney and Duane Kipp, Laguna Beach; Gelsmina Eyer, Orange; and Lena Armfield, Artesia.

Announcement was made that at the meeting of September 6, past matrons' and patrons' night would be observed.

PRISON BAKING PUNISHMENT PROMISED

PHILADELPHIA. (AP)—Governor George H. Earle announced today that "most drastic action" at an inquest tomorrow to fix the blame for the "baking to death" of four hunger-striking convicts in the Philadelphia county prison.

Earle did not indicate what the "drastic action" would be, but said the guilty would be punished. At the same time, Earle issued orders to prevent recurrency anywhere in the state of prison conditions he said were "worse than the black hole of Calcutta."

He announced that beginning tomorrow state police, acting as agents of the welfare department, would inspect once weekly the commonwealth's 70 county prisons and 500 local jails.

If the inspectors find improper conditions, the governor said, they will report them to the state welfare department, which at first will make the conditions public and depend on popular indignation to force their correction.

If this fails, Earle said, the state may find "some legal means" to remedy improper treatment of prisoners, or bad conditions in jail ordinarily outside its jurisdiction. Earle made his statement at a press conference in the presence of Governor Hersch, State Secretary of Welfare Charles I. Engard, and Dr. Martin P. Crane, coroner's physician.

"Americans are inclined to overestimate," Earle said, "but the press, if anything, has understated the utter horror of this situation. The men were literally cooked alive and the 21 survivors must have gone through the torments of hell."

Hoping to produce something brainier than the mule, a South African farmer is figuring on breeding "zebroids"—a cross between a horse mare and zebra stallion.

RECORD WON'T STAND LONG, SAYS AVIATOR

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Alexander P. De Seversky is certain the air record of 10 hours, three minutes and seven seconds he set yesterday between New York and Los Angeles won't stand up long.

He says an army pursuit ship will be able to crack his record soon.

The little monoplane he ferried here for Jacqueline Cochran to fly in the Bendix dash can cruise 3000 miles without refueling its wing-to-wing tanks and that, he observed, carries great military significance.

"We have learned, from the wars in Spain and China," Seversky said, "that bombardment craft are vulnerable to attack from the air unless properly convoyed. So the big 'flying fortress' that cruises 5000 miles must be accompanied by pursuit ships that can go equally as far non-stop."

Manufacturers, including Seversky, are working on such planes and soon after Christmas, he predicted, they will crack the long sought 400-mile-an-hour mark.

What's What 'Bout Traffic

By CAPT. H. C. MEEHAN
(Captain, Orange County Unit, California Highway Patrol)

Q. Has the law requiring dimming of headlights upon meeting oncoming vehicles at night, been repealed?

A. No. The law requires that, at night, when a vehicle approaching another and within 500 feet the headlights shall be dimmed, when equipped so that the beams may be depressed.

Q. Do the signs in the streets of San Francisco mean what they indicate when they read: "No parking night or day" or "No Parking?" I went to a radio broadcast and in the alley there were signs reading as above but cars were parked under such signs. In my haste I parked mine there too and was prepared to pay a fine. When I came out we had no police tags. No police officer has asked me to show my 1929 license yet.

HAYWARD.
A. Would it not be better to cooperate with the mere handful of traffic officers in a city as large as San Francisco by heeding such signs? The signs mean just what they say but not all violators of the law are always detected. You will not be asked to exhibit your driver's license unless stopped or arrested by some officer. There are nearly three million operators' licenses in existence in California, which gives an idea of the task confusion and delay an inspection of every such license would cause.

Q. May I turn left into an alley or private driveway?

L. M.
A. There is no prohibition against this in the vehicle code which only governs left turns at intersections. Local ordinances may prohibit such turns when properly sign posted.

Q. Do funeral processions have the right of way at all times?

K. H. G.
A. While written law is silent on this point, human law and respect for the deceased and mourners most certainly gives such groups the right of way over all other traffic.

Q. Does a pedestrian have the right of way at intersections any more? Several times lately I have been left stranded in the middle of the street because motorists cut ahead and around me as I tried to cross.

L. A. Lév.
A. The law still applies to pedestrians crossing at certain places but many selfish drivers fail to respect the rights of pedestrians at any time. Officers are constantly watching for such violations. However, pedestrians, too, have an obligation to exercise great care when crossing streets.

KAUFMAN GOES ON AIR ABOUT
'FOOLS RUSH IN'

B. Hervey, attorney from San Diego who filed the "fee case" against Kaufman. The author of the pamphlet, Kaufman said, "was undoubtedly making a bid for beach votes" by rating beach-city candidates at the top of the list in supervisory races.

Brief excerpts from Kaufman's address last night:
"This article was written by a man with a keen political mind and a student of political history in Orange county."
"For the benefit of you people who have never engaged to any extent in politics, it becomes necessary to know how a political campaign is managed. When a particular person determines to run for an office of any consequence, he usually first has a manager, and second, a publicity agent. This is true in Mr. Jackson's case. Mr. George Hart is Mr. Jackson's publicity agent and was also the publicity agent for E. Z. McKinney when he ran against me for district attorney of Orange county four years ago."

CHARGE SWITCHED

"Mr. Hart was at that time also Mr. Jackson's agent. You folks will perhaps recall that a great deal of the publicity which emanated in connection with that campaign was to the effect that Mr. Thomas McFadden, well-known attorney in Anaheim, had repeatedly represented gamblers and gambling interests and that he was sponsoring my candidacy as district attorney. . . . Mr. Thomas McFadden also has his office in Anaheim, and Mr. George Holden is Mr. McFadden's partner, so the individual who wrote 'Fools Rush In' took what we call a shot in the dark and instead of having Mr. McFadden represent the gambling interests, places me now by the accusation in that position."

"Col. Berry, who is the editor of a weekly newspaper known as the 'Santa Ana Independent,' has been constantly waging a political fight against Logan Jackson. . . . undoubtedly, the author of this particular article does not like Colonel Berry, as he is the only newspaperman I have ever known as the 'Colonel.'"

SIMILAR CHARGES

"I have a scrap book which I saved from the campaign four years ago in running for the office of district attorney. . . . there are many similar accusations appearing in that book, which is now four years old, that also appear in the pamphlet called 'Fools Rush In.' As I stated a moment ago, about the only difference is that the author is replacing Mr. McFadden with myself. Also bear in mind, as I told you a moment ago, that Mr. George Hart during that campaign was Mr. Jackson's publicity agent and also is Mr. Jackson's publicity agent, as I mentioned in the present campaign. . . . "In this pamphlet which has been circulated, Mr. Jackson is portrayed as the only other candidate running for office and in the comment it recites the fact that he is hated by gamblers, who it states are represented by myself and Mr. Thomas McFadden. This is rather significant in view of the fact that Mr. McFadden was also tied up with the four years ago in campaign publicity, which appeared in the Santa Ana Register where Mr. George Hart was then and is now employed. This article lauding Mr. Jackson condemns Mr. N. E. West, a supervisor from Laguna Beach, in Orange county, for instituting the $75,000 suit against the sheriff on behalf of the county, and also attempts to discredit the 'colonel' . . .

BID FOR BEACH VOTES

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am not asking you to vote for a particular person for sheriff, but I do want to make my position clear so that so far as I am concerned and so far as my friends are concerned, who will listen to me, we are not going to vote for Logan Jackson. . . . The individual who wrote this pamphlet was undoubtedly making a bid for beach votes by reason of the fact that he placed Mr. Warner of Huntington Beach at the top of the list, who has for years been a city councilman in Huntington Beach, and placing Mr. Elmer Hughes next in order, who for years has been city councilman and mayor at Seal Beach."

"Again he makes a bid for the votes of Newport Beach by placing Mr. Lloyd Claire, who for years has been a city councilman at Newport Beach, at the top of the list."

"The interesting thing about the fifth district race is the fact that again Mr. N. E. West, who has lately very consistently opposed Mr. Jackson, is being criticized and also is his attorney, Mr. Edgar Hervey of San Diego. "We must now discuss the second booklet, entitled 'Outward Acts Indicate the Inward Intent' . . . investigators learned that one of Logan Jackson's own deputies signed a receipt for the transcript, so he could take it out of that office. The receipt was signed 'G. F. McKelvey, Sergeant of the Sheriff's Office of Orange County.' This information, ladies and gentlemen, was, as I said, found by the investigating officers and citizens and not voluntarily given by Mr. Logan Jackson or Mr. McKelvey. . . . the booklet has nothing but praise for Mr. Jackson."

'SHOPWORN
ANGEL' HERE

The drama of an unusual triangular love affair is shown in "The Shopworn Angel," opening an engagement today at the Broadway theater with Margaret Sullivan, James Stewart and Walter Pidgeon in the leading roles.

It is the dramatic story of a woman who sacrifices her love for one man so that she might send another away to the war with a beautiful memory without shattering his ideals.

Miss Sullivan portrays the role of a gold-digging showgirl who marries the young naive soldier, Stewart, because she wants him to go to France with a memory and because he is the first man who ever has looked upon her as a fine woman. Her other sweetheart is Pidgeon, the dashing man-about-town, who knows and loves her for what she is.

The supporting cast includes Hattie McDaniel, Nat Pendleton, Alan Curtis, Sam Levene, Eleanor Lynn and Charles D. Brown.

The second attraction is "Tenth Avenue Kid," a drama of a big city, featuring Bruce Cabot, Beverly Roberts and Tommy Ryan.

Elephant Banished

Friend Into Moat

NEW YORK. (AP)—Bill, a truculent 4500 pound elephant, was banished from the Prospect park zoo's elephant house in Brooklyn today for rough housing his girl friend, Hilda.

Bill, a bully who doesn't know his own strength, butted Hilda yesterday and knocked her over a railing. She landed at the bottom of a ten-foot concrete moat—3000 pounds of injured feminine pride.

Her hind legs temporarily paralyzed by the fall, Hilda was hoisted out by a derrick. She sulked in her boudoir today, but zoo veterinarians said she would recover.

TOWNSEND
NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB
(This column deals with Townsend news and views. Any opinions which are expressed herein are not necessarily those of The Journal.)

There is still time to cast your vote in the 1938 primary election if you haven't already done so. The polls will be open until 7 o'clock this evening.

Every American citizen should vote his convictions on election day. Help select those who will be in office to direct affairs for the next few years and through their representation you will be exercising your proportional power of influence with that exerted by other citizens of your community. If ever the American people lose their power of representation it will be because they fail to use their privileges in voting. If the American people will exercise the power given them through the constitutional right of suffrage they can have any kind of government they want. Especially liberal is the franchise privilege which has been granted to ourselves as a people.

Let every Townsendite demonstrate before 7 o'clock tonight his own good type of Americanism by having gone to the polls and voted for the candidates who were best fitted and most capable for the places of trust. Don't say "let George do it" but fulfill your own obligation in this respect. Don't forget, that voting for candidates who are for the Townsend plan will some day put it across.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Miller, 920 1/2 South Barton street, this city, has come a letter which reads as follows: "Dear Mr. Robb; we are sending you congratulations on the second birthday of your column in The Journal. We appreciate The Journal so much because it is willing to give its readers the Townsend news through your column. We mean the true Townsend news and here is hoping that when another year rolls around that you will still be giving us the same good news you have during the past two years. You have our best wishes." Mr. and Mrs. Miller are members of Santa Ana club No. 5, which is meeting at 7:30 this evening in the P.T.A. auditorium of the Lowell school, located at South Flower and W. on Bishop streets. Entrance is made

This is the night that Orange club No. 1 meets in the Townsend club building at 131 South Glassell street with H. W. Larson as the presiding officer. The hour of the meeting will be 7:30 p. m.

Phillip S. Doolittle, president of the Santa Ana Townsend hall administration board advises that a meeting of the board has been called for tomorrow evening at 7:30 p. m. The members of the board are requested to be present.

The writer has received the following kind letter from Grant Henderson, a staunch and true friend of the Townsend plan:

"Dear Mr. Robb: Almost two years ago you informed me that you were going to write a column in The Santa Ana Journal in the interests of the Townsend plan."

"The lending policy of

is to provide the soundest type of credit best suited to the need of every individual and of every established business no matter how large or small.

If any man or woman of good character and proved ability requires money for any worthy purpose—for business or for personal uses, no matter how specialized the need, Bank of America has, or will endeavor to provide, the type of credit that will be most helpful."

Chairman of the Board of Directors

Bank of America has always made sound capital loans to large and small businesses to the maximum amount permitted by government banking regulations. Now Bank of America is pleased to be able to offer, through its 493 California-wide branches, a new, more liberalized lending service.

LOANS FOR SMALL BUSINESS

Small businesses may be generally divided into two classes—retailers and manufacturers. Bank of America has a special loan plan designed to meet the needs of both. The most common need of the small manufacturer is for working capital and capital for plant improvements. The retailer's problem is primarily one of ready cash to carry more receivables and a sufficient inventory. The manufacturer may avail himself of both the accounts receivable plan and the small capital loan plan outlined below. The retailer's principal problem may be solved by use of the small capital loan plan or a combination of this plan and FHA financing which, under Title I, permits modernization of property, the installation of new store fronts, fixtures, and similar improvements. Small capital loans for either retailers or manufacturers are available only to concerns which have been established for at least

*The term Minimum Annual Net Income Requirement means the net cash income of the business before depreciation and owner's withdrawals.

ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE FINANCING

Flexible working capital in any amount for manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers

Bank of America's plan of financing accounts receivable is designed to meet the working capital needs of manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers. Debtors are not notified and there is no interruption of regular routine. If you are not now discounting, you can free the cash you have invested in receivables and provide flexible working capital for all your requirements at a profit, and at the same time insure adequate capital when sales expand. Loans for capital purposes are also available to manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers.

DEPUTIES KILL
2 GUNMEN IN INDIANA FIGHT

INDIANAPOLIS. (AP)—Two gunmen were shot to death in a wild exchange of gunfire with three deputy sheriffs in southeastern Indianapolis today.

Without warning, the gunmen opened fire on the deputies, who had halted to investigate a taxicab in which the men rode. The officers proved to be better marksmen and felled the men, one by one. None of the deputies was struck.

Deputy Robert Harritt said identity of the gunmen had not been established positively, but they had registered at a hotel yesterday as Earl Lindsay and William Davis, both of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

In the hat of one of the men was written the name, "A. V. Bradshaw of Eggs, Okla." In the gunmen's automobile, parked in the hotel garage, were a rifle, two sets of Arkansas license plates and a police dog. The car bore Iowa license plates 18-1503.

Harritt said he and the other officers decided to stop the taxicab following receipt of a tip one of the passengers was armed. Wayne Schull, the cab driver, jumped from the machine unharmed and fell in a clump of weeds. He said he had driven the men to several resorts.

I subscribed to The Journal so I might be enabled to see what you would do, through the medium of the newspaper, to advance so great a humanitarian movement.

"Not only have I been interested in 'Townsend News, Views' because of information concerning the activities of local Townsend clubs; but, I am convinced that you would not write as you do unless you possessed a sincere belief in and a genuine devotion to the fundamental principles of the Townsend plan."

"As a member of a local club I am grateful for the information and the constructive ideas you have presented to Townsendites and the public. And so, I wish to congratulate you upon the two years' service you have given us; and also extend to you my hearty wish that you may have the strength and the will to carry on in that service."

Bank of America has a convenient method of making amortized loans, or note form to business and industry. This type of loan is particularly well adapted to the concern desiring to expand its operations as well as those desiring to refinance existing obligations.

one year. For loans over $1000 a concern must have been established for a longer period. Loans may be made with or without security or endorsement, depending upon the amount and maturity of the loan. Loans of this type, however, cannot be made for the purpose of starting new ventures.

LOANS FOR SMALL BUSINESS

Small businesses may be generally divided into two classes—retailers and manufacturers. Bank of America has a special loan plan designed to meet the needs of both. The most common need of the small manufacturer is for working capital and capital for plant improvements. The retailer's problem is primarily one of ready cash to carry more receivables and a sufficient inventory. The manufacturer may avail himself of both the accounts receivable plan and the small capital loan plan outlined below. The retailer's principal problem may be solved by use of the small capital loan plan or a combination of this plan and FHA financing which, under Title I, permits modernization of property, the installation of new store fronts, fixtures, and similar improvements. Small capital loans for either retailers or manufacturers are available only to concerns which have been established for at least

PIRATES FACE GIANTS IN CRUCIAL SERIES

Jack Robertson's 65 Breaks S. A. Amateur Record

H. B. GOLFER ALSO EQUALS PRO'S MARK

Shattering the amateur course record by two strokes, Jack Robertson of Huntington Beach turned in a sensational 65, seven under par, in golf at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday.

His scintillating round broke the amateur record of 67 held jointly with Don Kennedy, Stanford University star, and equaled the professional record of 65 held by Dallas Jeffers.

Robertson, one of the most consistent performers on Capt. Garland Ross' tournament team, carded eight birdies in hanging up the brilliant record. His card and par follow:

(First Nine)
Robertson 524 333 345-32
Par 534 443 445-36
(Second Nine)
Robertson 455 424 434-33
Par 455 433 435-36

The record-breaking performance was witnessed by B. J. MacMullen, George Baker, C. P. Boyer, A. W. Robinson, H. S. Wright, Van Pomeroy, Lynn Ostrander and Bill Jordan.

As a special Labor day celebration, Santa Ana golfers will compete in a 36-hole medal play tournament Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Roy Renwick, club pro, announced. There will be two handicap divisions—scratch to 13, and 13 to 24. Players will not be required to field their entries, Renwick said.

First-round matches in the annual President's cup tournament are being played this week.

OILERS TRIP SAN BERDOO NINE, 4 TO 3

Opening the National Night league championship series, Huntington Beach's Oilers bagged the first game, 4 to 3, over San Bernardino at Colton last night.

The clubs make their second start tomorrow night at Colton. Manager Joe Rodgers elected to save his No. 1 pitching wizard, Venn Botts, but had to bring in the lanky hurler in the ninth inning to save his starter, Ellywynn (Fuzzy) Errington, from defeat. After walking Bob (Lefty) Fowler and allowing Weiser to single, Errington was yanked after pitching three balls and a strike to Manager "Red" Andrews. Botts couldn't get his first ball past Andrews, who batted out a single, scoring Fowler with the tying run.

Pete Osborn singled but was forced at second by Murray in the last of the ninth. Al Rebin hit to Fowler, who threw the ball into the dirt trying to force Murray at second. A walk to Orv Schuchardt filled the bases and Francis Conrad bounced to second, scoring Murray.

Hits by Rebin, Conrad and Rodgers in the fourth produced Huntington Beach's first run. San Bernardino Huntington Beach

COBB'S SPEED RUN POSTPONED

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah. (AP)—John Cobb, wealthy fur broker from London who dashes across land at daring speeds because he likes it, sped his racing car over this white course twice today, but postponed an assault on the world's land speed record.

Designer Reid Raitton disclosed that Cobb's average was "well over 300 miles per hour."

"Everything worked perfectly," Raitton added.

Official timers, at Cobb's request, declined to disclose the actual speed average.

A cloudy sky that shielded the sun gave Cobb a perfect day. Rain which postponed yesterday's scheduled run dried up over night and the salt was in perfect condition.

The Englishman was calm and confident.

He declined, however, to estimate his sleek machine's maximum speed.

Eyston greeted Cobb with a cheery welcome.

Today a year ago—Joe Louis outpointed Tommy Farr in 15-round title bout, but failed to score a single knockdown.

MILLER AND BLAKEMORE MAKE 'DOUBLE KILLING'

Two little has been written—and said—about the "double killing" two Santa Anas made in the recent tennis tournament at Anaheim.

Miss Patsy Miller and Bob Blake more returned home with gold trophies emblematic of the championship in the girls' and boys' divisions, respectively, for netters 18 years or under. It was the first time that Anaheim officials had opened the tournament to outsiders, so that makes the Santa Anas the "foreigners" to hold championships.

Elated over their Anaheim showing, Miss Miller and Blake more are preparing for further tournament play.

SHAW, GOMEZ SCORE IN S. A. FIGHTS

By KENNETH ADAMS

They brought a savage from the West Indies to the Orange County Athletic club last night to meet the game red-headed Mexican boy, Red O'Shannon, Los Angeles.

And the husky dark lad from the islands pinned Red's ears back with a classy exhibition of mixed boxing and slugging. It was a terrific brawl, like all those that O'Shannon appears in. The negro, John Shaw, won the decision at the end of the four rounds.

In the second stanza, the negro boy cracked O'Shannon back of the right ear and he went down for a seven-count. He got up to slug toe-to-toe with the West Indian. The third round saw the air filled with gloves every minute, until Red was clipped on the jaw and went down again, this time for a nine-count.

In the other half of the "double main" go Marty Gomez, Boyde Heights, and Al Higgs, squat L. A. negro, staged a fine boxing exhibition. Both clever fighters gave all they had, and the decision went to Gomez.

Another good match was staged by Tino Sanchez, Los Angeles, and Frank Gardea, Boyle Heights. Sanchez, a straight, deadly puncher, won the decision in an action-packed event.

Kid Buddy, the veteran negro fighter from L. A., had his hands full when he met Bobby Cruz, Santa Ana. Cruz, a fine-looking boy, entered the ring for the first time in his life to worry the veteran with his eagerness and gameness. Buddy took the nod.

Marshall Calderon, Santa Ana, was the decision over Tony Jurado, Los Angeles, after having been smashed to the canvas for a nine-count in the first frame. Calderon came back in the fourth round to knock Jurado down for a nine-count and win the edge.

Jim Hutchinson, Long Beach, was not match for Lupe Placentia, Santa Ana. Placentia kayaked the white boy in the second round. Jack Harris, hard-hitting white lad from Long Beach, gave Al Barby, Los Angeles negro, the surprise of his life. Barby came out with both fists lashing out. He beat Harris to the punch in the clinches, and then Harris unleashed a straight right that caught the negro on the button and he fell forward flat on his face. It was a clean knockout, coming in the middle of the first round.

The Filipino, Steve Silva, lost a close decision to Gil Morales, Los Angeles. Morales earned the edge in his drop, which was working uppercut jarred Silva and another stiff punch opened a deep gash over his eye.

CROSSROADS OF HISTORY . . .

CROSSROADS OF HISTORY . . .

Strange as it seems, the paths of two great explorers in 1609 crossed within 100 miles of each other in upper New York state—yet neither man knew the other existed.

Samuel de Champlain, a French navigator and colonizer, in 1608 had completed the founding of the important fur-trading post at Quebec. The following summer he was accompanied by a Seneca and Huron expedition against the Iroquois on the shores of Lake Champlain, which he discovered.

There, with a single shot from his musket, he killed Arquebuc, Champlain's ally, and three Mohawk chiefs near Crown Point, a mistake that prevented the French important fur-trading post at Quebec. The following summer he accompanied an Algonquin and Huron expedition against the Iroquois on the shores of Lake Champlain, which he discovered.

There, with a single shot from his heavily - loaded Arquebus, Champlain killed three Mohawk chiefs near Crown Point, a mistake that prevented the French from completing their colonization conquest of America and eventually cost them their northern dominion.

About the same time an English navigator was sailing his ship, the Half Moon, up the Hudson river to Albany. Henry Hudson and his half Dutch, half English crew of 20 were searching for a through route to China.

A Husband Too Perfect?

Consider the strange case of the Sikoras of Chicago. Respectable middle-class people, they stepped into the spotlight recently when Husband Rudolph shot and killed Edward Solomon, with whom Mrs. Sikora was in love.

Mrs. Sikora's reason for slipping off the straight path of matrimony lifted the incident from the usual sordid domestic triangle into the class of pure psychology. "My husband was too perfect," she said. "He never did anything wrong, and was always so sweet and considerate. He was so perfect it became tiresome, so I started running around with Solomon, who was not perfect at all."

Few women, of course, will find themselves in Mrs. Sikora's predicament, for few will admit their husbands are perfect. There is, however, something in what Mrs. Sikora has said. Absolute perfection in another individual is a boring quality. It is the human qualities, sometimes the imperfections, in individuals which endear them—because in being imperfect they are putting themselves on a level with others, instead of up on an unreachable pedestal.

If the perfect Mr. Sikora had shown the imperfection of anger when his wife started running around with the unfortunate Mr. Solomon he might have nipped the whole affair in the bud. But no, he merely sighed, and so Mrs. Sikora went into the arms of a man she could understand.

Too much perfection is also dangerous for the individual who practices it; Mr. Sikora, for example. He bottled up his human instincts so long that, when they did burst out, he became a madman, pumping bullets into his foe on the streets of Chicago.

The Japanese explain that they shot down that passenger plane because it was flying away from their shooters. A violation of aviation etiquette, plainly.

Song of Ringlets

Woman's crowning glory is making another migration. Hair is on the upgrade.

Unpredictable as spring weather, the prevailing mode—or maybe it would be more correct to say the mode that seeks to prevail—is shifting milady's topknot far up toward the top of her head, where it lies in crisp ringlets.

There's a touch of classical antiquity about the ringlets, for it is such a hair-do that is associated with the goddesses of ancient mythology, who were credited with some very human qualities and activities. Burnished ringlets of gold, bronze or jet are mentioned in the descriptions of many an ancient beauty only a few degrees removed from the worshiped goddesses of Mount Olympus.

About the ringlets of 1938, however, there's a piquancy and a sauciness that will not let us be fooled into thinking our sisters, daughters, sweethearts—and mothers—have suddenly gone classical and have become distant and detached as goddesses might be.

No, our best guess is that the funny little trick hats we have been trying to learn to appreciate simply won't stay in place on the sleeker hair-do, and so a foundation of supporting ringlets had to be built.

Government with consent of the governed will certainly break down if the governed don't take pains in selecting their servants.

France's Newest Gag

The French WPA, or whatever corresponds to it, is busy excavating for a bombproof legislative hall to house the chamber of deputies in time of war crisis. Deep underground, the commodious shelter will provide office for the nation's lawmaking body and its entire staff of clerks, helpers and others.

Special safety doors are planned, it is reported, to permit the lawmakers, in time of dire emergency, to escape into the immense sewers which run deep and in a widespread system under Paris.

Except for its tragic implications the project has unlimited possibilities for wit and humor, which doubtless it will generate as time goes on and the normal processes of the parliamentary body bring forth quips and jibes among members and from the press.

With chronic Gallic candor the deputies, in time to come, will doubtless accuse many a fellow legislator of having dragged his pet idea from the gloomy and odoriferous corridors of the underground. And frank French journalists probably are already labeling unpleasant legislative proposals as "sewer projects."

A Coat of Paint for Baby

In Philadelphia a penniless painter gives a hospital flagpole a nice shiny new coat in repayment for delivery of his baby. He'd probably have fallen if the nurse had called up to him to tell him it was twins!

Seriously, though, it is a fine thing when such arrangements can be worked out. All too often families are plunged into debt for years at the birth of a baby, so that the youngster, who should be an unmitigated joy, becomes a financial liability.

The birth of a citizen is, of course, the most important event in his life. The day is coming when the cost of that birth will be so arranged that young Mr. Citizen isn't going to be a serious liability to anyone.

Well-Fed? Economic Royalists?

NEW YORK — There are some walks of life in which a man is almost obliged to practice what he preaches, failing which he discredits his own preaching. Thus the person is expected to refrain from crap shooting, drumming and lally-gagging, and the president of a great republic finds his own conduct measured against his utterances bearing on propriety in such circumstances. To a less extent, but to some extent, he is also held accountable for the conduct of persons under his control or for whom he vouches.

If a president should utter with a withering note the phrase "well-fed clubmen" that expression would be taken to indicate that he himself, although the president of a great republic, was not a clubman and had scorn for such. But if it should then be shown by reference to "Who's Who in America," edition of 1927-1928, that he then was a member of the Harvard club, the Knickerbocker club, the City club and the highly aristocratic Racquet and Tennis club, of New York, it would be no more than natural for his subjects to exclaim, "Listen who's talking about well-fed clubmen!"

And then, too, a president should denounce "economic royalists" and someone very near to him should write an intimate autobiography describing the life of a numerous family in terms of accustomed luxury and inherited wealth, with never a single word of work or production enterprise of any provider, that, too, would prompt an honest skeptic to say, "Well, now, let's see."

And then if the president, having used these terms, should make a speech urging moderation in debate and should follow that up with a denunciation of his political opponents as "copperheads"—wait a minute. Where are we, anyway? Either he is inconsistent and insincere or he considers the terms "well-fed clubman," "economic royalists," "copperhead" and oh, yes, "bourbon," to be moderate expressions. And if he thinks these to be such, then he cannot object to being called a carpet-bagger himself—a nasty one, if you will, but no worse than the copperhead!

Must Be Foolishness. Let us picture, too, the case of a president who thinks it wrong of a president to go campaigning in state elections but correct for the same man to do this in the role of party leader on the president's travel allowance.

Or conjure a case in which a president speaks warningly of rich men who ride in carriages and drink expensive wine on the same day that a rich young man so like his own son as to be mistaken for him gets into the ceremonial plug hat of a French mayor while riding in a carriage.

Or imagine, if you can, a president who says it is "indefensibly unethical" for a relative of a political leader to be in the surety business, elevating a position of power a son who accepted a $15,000 job from a group of promoters with no illusions that he was worth that money on ability alone and who explained it this way: "Father had become a national figure. The name was likely to become an asset. See? . . . Me? I was newly married, needed money, thought it was wonderful."

But this must be foolishness. No president would do all this, would he?

COMMUNISTS

Monday's press carried a story that I am to be called before the Dies committee investigating "un-American" activities to tell what evidences of communism developed while I was organizing WPA in New York City. I hope they don't, because I couldn't tell them anything of value.

Of course, there were communists on WPA relief. But what is the matter with that? There is a communist party in this country. It is no crime to belong to it. It openly proposes candidates for office and an insignificant number of citizens vote for them. Many sincere people believe in the principles of communism.

If the time ever comes in this country when a man can be persecuted or even discriminated against for his political beliefs, something will have happened to the very base of constitutional principle.—Gen. Hugh Johnson.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note—The Brass Ring and one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round this week go to New York Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, presiding judge in the trial of Tammany leader James J. Hines.)

NEW YORK—Intimate friends of Ferdinand Pecora will tell you that, in his heart, he would rather be standing in young Tom Dewey's shoes prosecuting Jimmy Hines, than to be sitting in the black robe of a judge conducting the sensational Tammany trial.

"Ferd" is just built that way. To the tips of his fingers he is a crusader, a resourceful, indefatigable and indomitable battler for causes.

Long before anyone ever heard of Dewey, Pecora was rocking the nation and making history with his spectacular investigation of the greatest financial powers in the world—J. P. Morgan & Co., the Chase National bank, the First National bank, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the New York Stock exchange. That was really big game hunting with mighty national issues at stake.

Out of Pecora's disclosures came three of the most far-reaching reforms of the New Deal—the securities act, the law creating the securities and exchange commission, and the holding company act.

Following this, Pecora might have been the man standing in Dewey's shoes but for Tammany hall. In 1933, thrilled by the magnitude of his extraordinary achievements in Washington, Manhattan liberals ran him as an independent for district attorney. But the wigwag, while suffering defeat at the hands of Fiorello LaGuardia for the mayoralty, was still strong enough to elect its own man to the district attorney's office in New York county.

It was this triumph which four years later was to open the way for Dewey and his big chance.

And Pecora, by now elevated to the state supreme court, was especially singled out by Governor Lehman to preside over the Dewey prosecutions. What thoughts may run through Pecora's mind as he sits on his judicial dais is his alone. But it is not unlikely that he frequently wishes he were down in the fighting arena before him.

Life-Long Fighter

Fighting comes natural to Pecora. He had to fight hard for everything he ever got in life. Born 56 years ago in the small village of Nicosia, Sicily, he was brought to the U. S. by his parents when five years old. In his early teens his father died and Pecora took up the burden of supporting his mother, smaller brothers and sisters.

His great ambition was to be a lawyer, but it was not until he was 27 years old that he was able to realize it. The need of supporting his family while working his way through school made it difficult to battle his way to the goal.

An effective speaker and possessed of an unusually ingratiating personality, young Pecora was early attracted to politics. He joined the democratic party, but the qualities of the crusader deeply ingrained in his soul kept him from tying up too closely with Tammany hall. And Tammany, while appreciating his outstanding talents, was always wary.

In politics it would allow him to progress only so far. In 1918 he was named an assistant district attorney, and four years later, after especially brilliant work, was elevated to chief assistant. But the district attorneyship itself was carefully kept out of his reach. The wigwag preferred "safer" men.

His fears of Pecora were not without grounds. Although holding a democratic appointment in 1924, he supported the elder Senator Bob LaFollette in his independent presidential campaign.

Banking Probe

Pecora remained chief assistant district attorney until 1930, when he returned to private practice. Three years later he was summoned to Washington to tackle the much bedeviled and ineffectual banking probe.

Three predecessors had blown up on the job. The investigation had got nowhere. Wall Street was laughing up its sleeve.

Three months after Pecora had taken hold, that laugh had turned to a howl of outraged fury—not only in the street but in the senate committee.

Led by Virginia's peppery little Senator Carter Glass, a group of committee members sought to block Pecora's expose of certain secret Morgan deals. The warring within the committee was bitter and close. Two great members of the committee, the late Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, democratic chairman from Florida, and the late Senator James Couzens, republican from Michigan, were Pecora's unflinching mainstays.

Working 15 and 18 hours a day in the most ferocious of Washington's hot weather, Pecora had the mightiest of the Wall street giants terrorized.

WASHINGTON. — (Special)—

A new version of the world-famous Douglas DC-2, the 14-passenger transport plane that revolutionized American commercial aviation four years ago, is now in existence on the drawing boards of Douglas engineers, it has been learned.

To be known as the DC-5, the new plane will be a cross between the DC-2, still operated by many airlines, and the DC-3, the 21-passenger plane that has become standard equipment for America's leading airlines.

In its general characteristics, it will also resemble the DC-4, the world's largest landplane, now undergoing trials by the manufacturers at Santa Monica, Calif.

The plane, which will have a gross weight of about 21,000 pounds, is intended for service on connecting lines where a plane the size of the 42-passenger DC-4 or even the 21-passenger ship could not be made to pay. The gross weight of the DC-3 is 25,000 pounds, of the DC-2, 18,200 pounds.

Several airlines have already been approached for criticism of the design. Somewhat smaller than the DC-3, it will seat 14 passengers in a cabin styled to resemble the 21-passenger plane.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines is public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag. Please limit communications to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to shorten all letters in excess of that length.

WE ARE "TOLD OFF"

To the Editor: You are no doubt responsible for articles appearing on the pages of your paper. You perhaps must also obey some one higher up, (not necessarily in your organization, but in the syndicate who is supposed to supply items of interest) and these bosses of yours are evidently so steeped in their own selfishness that they wrack their brains in getting copy together to try and make the reading public as ignorant as they think they ought to be. You whom I thought had an independent paper and the backbone to print facts and not garbled opinions are as a jelly fish in the hands of your bosses.

I will now refer to some of the things you have printed. On the front page of 8-25-38 an account of F. D. Roosevelt's statements are made and then elaborated upon. You put words in that man's mouth he never uttered and to your warped mind you have meant what you put there but did Mr. Roosevelt mean all that slanderous stuff? Next is Mr. Roosevelt absolutely infallible so that we must disagree with other well informed men his opinions are correct and all others are wrong? Did he not base his statements upon his knowledge received through a questionable source? Is not Mikado (Oh! beg pardon) McAdoo and his political machinations favor of anything that will benefit others than himself? Do you also agree that the average American family can live comfortably on $25.00 a month? (If they can get it?)

August 27, 1938, you have on an inner page a few remarks from Sheridan Downey. Why do you not print what Downey said and leave your own remarks out? If you must horn in with your questionable wisdom, do so in another article but for God's sake print facts.

Personally, I think that the telegram sent Mr. Roosevelt by Mr. Rockweiler was important news and should have been printed without comment but your bosses no doubt told you to lay off and you did.

I appreciate that your bread and butter comes from your advertisers and many of these (mis-called business men) small vendors or petty merchants often times are no better informed on economic measures than you or your bosses are and after all their ads are only trying to take from some fellow petty merchant the trade he had hoped to make a living on.

The California Retirement Life's Payment Act will pass. The warrants is not scrip in the sense you imply and it is self liquidating, will reduce taxes, accelerate business and will at least start the ball rolling toward some national movement which this country sorely needs for many reasons already common knowledge to any one capable of thinking beyond newspaper information.

You, the press, are on trial by millions of people and so far you are found wanting. I would like to have had you and I live during Columbus time. I am sure you would have been one of the flat world guys.

Please give us news and keep your own private opinions for your wife who I am sure will tell you where to head in at.

THE WOMEN'S SLIPS

Marian Behrens has taken the trouble recently to make a very valuable survey. From her seat in the trolley each morning she observes 10 of the fair sex as they walk up the car aisle. Her gender is to inspect each one to see if her slip is showing.

The general average now over quite a period of time shows that seven out of ten girls (this in the morning, too) have their slips showing. Women hate it, she adds, men abhor it. Then she asks, "Can't we do something about it?" Once more—this is as far as I can go. Cedric Adams in Minneapolis Star.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

"Florida has learned one thing recently."

"What is that?"

"That when stocks go up on Wall Street the visitors come down!"

SH-H!

"It looks like a storm. You had better stay to dinner."

"Oh, thanks. But it's hardly threatening enough for that."

I knew a fella who was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years. At the end of two years, the warden called him in and said, "You've been a good prisoner and I've talked the prison board into giving you a pardon. The prisoner turned pale and says, 'You can't do this to me! When I was sentenced here, I gave a fella a three-year lease on my house!'"

Would you like to get a job as flight-steward on an airplane?

Walter L. Avery, who is superintendent of passenger service for the Eastern Air Lines, told me about the requirements of his company. His company is the only one in the United States which employs men instead of girls. His company has 43 flight-stewards.

Here are some of the differences between flight-stewards and hostesses:

Most airplane companies will not hire a girl who is over 25. Mr. Avery's company will not hire flight-steward who is younger than 25.

Most companies will not keep an air-hostess after she is married. Mr. Avery's company encourages its flight-stewards to get married. He says it makes them settle down and take their jobs more seriously.

An air-hostess is looked upon as being more or less of a traveling companion.

A flight-steward is looked upon as a well-trained representative of the company whose job is to perform any necessary service for the passengers.

In selecting men for his company, the first requirement that Mr. Avery makes is the ability to get along with people. If a man can't do that, Mr. Avery does not want him. More applicants fall here than in any other particular. Mr. Avery says that his company's success will depend entirely upon pleasing the public. And its men who meet the public are the flight-stewards, so he is doubly careful to choose men who have this ability naturally.

He lists nine important qualifications with regard to personality:

1. The applicant must be able to manage people; to keep them contented and pleased while in the air, and on the ground.

2. The flight-steward must have a personality that will please and inspire confidence.

3. It is desirable that he have had experience in meeting and dealing with the public, such as waiters, valets, bellboys, clerks in stores, ticket agents, and so on. He should make a good appearance and be a credit to the company.

4. He should be well enough educated to impress the passengers with his learning and his grammar. (Mr. Avery tells me some of the flight-stewards are college men.)

5. He must be dependable.

Now as to the physical end:

1. He should have good health, and especially not be susceptible to air-sickness.

2. Must be between 5 feet 4 inches and 5 feet 8 inches.

3. He should be between 25 and 35 years of age.

4. He should weigh between 125 and 150 pounds.

The salary paid to start is $100 a month, with an allowance of $4 a day for expenses when away from the base station.

See you in the air, boys!

Every now and then a man's mind is stretched by a new idea and never shrinks back to its former dimensions.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.
